Schools debate closing campuses

Plan could raise campuses, say

EL CERRITO — A plan to less violence at RUSD high schools by changing open campus policies may lead to more violence. At least that's what many students and parents are saying as school board members consider possibility of closing all campuses in response to the recent shootings at Richmond High School and Pinole Valley.

The idea is that since the shootings were connected to student-non-student interaction, closing the campuses will make it easier to identify non-students and keep them away from the campus. The trouble is that hundreds of students who have not been in-involved in violence will lose their open campus privileges. And some worry that the very fact of being cooped up together will incite violent incidents that have been at a minimum in the past — especially at El Cerrito High

"Bad idea," said Ted Picciotto, an active senior at ECHS. "I really don't think it will solve anything."

According to Picciotto, "a lot of the reason people get out" during lunchtime is to avoid potentially bad situations. "In a closed situation and a more crowded environment like that, there'll be more violence," he said.

Sharon Farber agrees. Farber is a sophomore; she says she and her friends enjoy walking to the park and talking during lunch, or going down the street to 7-Eleven for a snack.

"Things will get much worse," said Farber. "There'll be a lot more violence, a lot more fights if you close all those kids up together."

Farber referred to "certain groups" at the high school that are already in tension. "A lot of them hate each other," she said, agreeing with Picciotto's comment that some students leave the campus to avoid problems.

"I think it's scary," she said, adding that the anger that will come from the loss of freedom will add to the bad feelings. "It makes me really upset. I like to

Outsiders blamed for campus trouble

The Richmond Unified School District board was to meet last night to discuss the possible change from an open campus to a closed campus policy for all high schools in the district. The move comes in response to recent shootings at Richmond High and Pinole Valley High, incidents that occurred in situations involving a student/non-student mix.

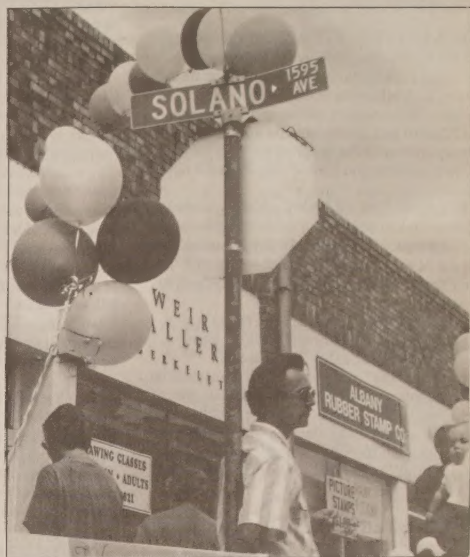

Paul Ihara, RUSD spokesperson, said the main idea is to prevent outsiders from coming onto campus and creating problems. The sentiment among school board members was favorable, he said, adding that Superintendent Herb Cole is strongly in favor of the move.

Ihara noted that numerous dimensions of the decision need to be addressed, including such items as security staffing and increased food services to ac-

Costs of campaigning

ALBANY — If the report on April election costs by State Fair Political Practices Commission is any indication, the price of running for City Council has risen dramatically in recent years.

According to the report which became available at the end of August, Mike Brodsky, the big winner in the April election with 2,127 votes, received contributions of $14,234 and spent $10,831. Coming in second in the person race with 1,693 votes, Thelma Rubin reported contributions of $2,065 and expenditures of $1,820. Deirdre Wallace, fifth in the contest for three vacancies with 1,194 votes, received $3,512 in contributions and spent $3,312.

Robert Good, a winner with 1,251 votes, and loser Al Lewis, who trailed Good by 22 votes, were not required to make financial reports because their campaigns spent less than $1,000.

Picture book focus

KENSINGTON — The library's fall series of Picture Book Time for preschoolers ages 3-5 will begin on Thursday, Sept. 22 at 1:15 p.m. and will continue each Tuesday afternoon through Nov. 10.

Pre-registration is required. Each meeting of this free series will last approximately 30 minutes.

In addition, a series of Toddler Time for preschoolers ages 2½-3½ will begin on Thursday, Sept. 24 at 11 a.m. and will continue each Thursday morning through Nov. 12. This free program for young preschoolers and their parents will include songs and fingerplays as well as stories. Each meeting will last approximately 20-25 minutes. Pre-registration is required.

The Kensington Library, a branch of the Contra Costa County Library System, is located at 61 Arlington Ave. Open hours are Monday and Tuesday 1-9 p.m.; Wednesday and Thursday 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.; and Friday and Saturday 1-5.

Artists break bread

ALBANY — Artists and patrons of the arts are invited to gnosh and mingle Sept. 22 at 7 p.m. at the Albany Senior Center during the Fourth Annual Artists' Luck & Social sponsored by the Albany Arts Committee.

Local artists in all media are more than welcome to come to share their work, talent and creative spirit. Everyone is asked to bring a salad, entree or dessert to share. RSVP by calling 524-9283, please.

Script scripts available

The Berkeley Repertory Theater, in cooperation with the Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired, is making Braille scripts of their productions available to visually impaired patrons. Theatergoers may check out or receive scripts by mail in advance of attending a performance.

Berkeley Rep productions of The Importance of Being Earnest, Woody Guthrie's American Song and the recent Speed-the-Plow are available in Braille scripts for use under the new program.

Attendees may also hear a short audio tape describing the staging and design of a play just prior to performance. For information about this service, call the Berkeley Rep Box Office at 845-4700.

Volunteers can make a difference in the condition of our beaches.

Everyone's invited to environmental festivities

The City of Albany Recreation and Community Services Department will sponsor the annual Albany Beach Cleanup on Saturday, Sept. 19 from 10 a.m. to noon. All environmentally concerned groups and individuals are encouraged to participate in the celebration and preservation of the local coastline.

Participants are urged to bring hot dogs and hamburgers. Barbecues and complimentary soft drinks will be provided for lunch.

Remember to dress warmly, wear sun screen and bring work gloves.

Prizes will be awarded for the most exotic, beautiful, biggest, and ugliest trash collected.

Albany Beach is located behind the north Golden Gate Fields parking lot, adjacent to the foot of Buchanan Street in Albany. For more information contact the Recreation and Community Services office at 524-9283.

The East Bay Regional Park District also invites volunteers to help clean up its beaches, including the Martinez, Point Pinole, Miller/Knox and Point Isabel regional shorelines, from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Bring a lunch; beverages will be provided. Call 238-6688 to sign up.

Another city gets tough on smoking

City Council approves ordinance

By Phyllis Lyon

ALBANY — Putting Albany on the road to becoming a smoke-free city, the City Council Monday night passed a tough anti-smoking ordinance to protect public health in general and the victims of second-hand smoke in particular.

"This ordinance capitalizes on information proving the dangers of smoking developed since our present law was passed in 1986," said Councilmember Thelma Rubin, former health nurse and staunch anti-smoking crusader.

Representatives of the American Lung Association, the American Cancer Society and the Association of Smoke-Free Cities appeared before the council to support the law and make the case for the hazards of smoking.

The council heard impassioned pleas against the ordinance from smokers and business owners who fear a loss of customers.

"Smokers are shy people," said self-confessed smoker Colman Ridge. "And you're removing our participation in public life. We're a hated minority."

Barbara Franciosa, manager of the restaurant at the Albany Bowl, called the ordinance "disgraceful."

"Our business will drop by 45 percent."

A representative of the Alameda County Tobacco Control Board, however, said that one in three restaurants in Albany is already

Better racial balance sought for AUSD staff

By Julia Shure

ALBANY — The school district must begin to remedy institutional racism, an Albany High school teacher told members of the Board of Education at last week's meeting.

David De Hart, social studies teacher at Albany High and president of the Albany Teachers Association, criticized the school board for not hiring any minority teachers to fill the 18 new teaching positions that opened up last year.

The district's student population "has become increasingly multi-racial, multiethnic and multicultural, while the faculty and administration have remained predominantly white despite numerous vacancies," De Hart said.

He said the district has been accused of racial discrimination for the last several years and suggested the school board should have used the hiring opportunity provided by teacher vacancies to counter those charges.

De Hart asked the school board to review hiring practices and to develop a comprehensive affirmative action plan by Dec. 1, 1992.

Boardmember Alan Riffer said the district's affirmative action

'It is embarrassing that we have so few minority teachers.'

plan goes back about five years.

Superintendent Dale Hudson admitted the staff doesn't reflect the student population and said a lack of minority teachers has long been a problem at the state and national level.

"Our plan is fine," Hudson said. "We review it every year."

Minority student enrollment at Albany schools last year was 46 percent. Non-administrative certificated staff was 13 percent minority, according to the district's affirmative action plan.

The plan says that "...the district cannot wait for minority applicants and other underrepresented groups to appear. Affirmative action requires a recruiting program to tap all available sources to

City makes money while the sun shines

THE SKY IS FALLING! The sky is falling! Stand back! Mind-boggling numbers are pelting down like hailstones.

The Fed is in hock $4 trillion and this year's $1.1 trillion spending puts us another $400 billion in the red. I heard 40 cents per tax dollar goes to the interest-only loan. Pretty soon we can turn all the tax money directly over to whoever's holding those U. S. Junk Bonds and eliminate the middle man in Washington.

Our Golden State's $53.5 billion budget still leaves an $11 billion shortfall in the bank. Don't you love "shortfall"? I think it's the opposite of "revenue enhancement."

AFTER KEEPING EVERYBODY shivering in their boots for 64 days, the guys in Sacramento finally called it quits, having cut $2.2 billion from education, $1.7 billion from health and welfare and $1.4 billion from counties, cities, special districts like AC Transit and redevelopment agencies, leaving everybody with no boots to shiver in.

Are you yawning and leaping on to Clara-Rae yet?

IN JULY, WHEN ALBANY officials hustled up to Sacramento and got thrown out of the governor's office, a state cut of $1 million in city revenues, or 15 percent of the General Fund income, from property taxes and vehicle license fees appeared to be a certainty.

And when it looked as if a million bucks was going south, City Administrator Nachbar froze permanent city jobs and the "purchase of non-essential items" and "suspended non-essential travel and conference expenditures" to start the austerity ball rolling, which struck me peculiar. All this time I'd assumed city electees and employees weren't buying stuff or junketing places which were "non-essential" in the first place, but that's another story.

SO THE ENERGY TO HOLD up the standoff petered out and legislators wandered off to face dismal reelection prospects. The exact numbers are not in but estimates I've heard around City Hall put Albany's cut as low as $150,000, as high as $300,000. "Not a huge hit," I heard, with the ominous addition, "This year."

Huge hit or not, the scramble is on to devise ways to enhance city revenue with, oh, godforbid, No New Taxes. So far the council has postponed tree trimming into infinity and thought about car rooms on the waterfront, but my personal Get The State's

By Phyllis Lyon

Goat prize for financial creativity goes to Police Chief Murdo's Traffic Diversion Program.

YOU THINK THIS PROGRAM diverts traffic? Nope. It deliciously diverts traffic fine money from state to city coffers. Here is an illustration from real life on how it works.

The venerable City Councilperson Thelma Rubin, late and in a hurry, made what she says her kids call a "Hollywood stop" at the corner of Jackson and Solano, failing to notice the redoubtable Officer Barham around the corner.

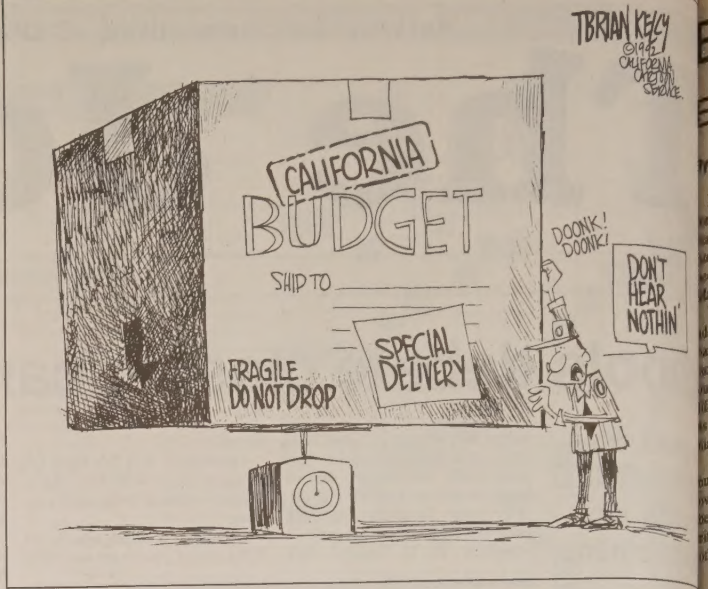

In what I would love to say was "hot pursuit" but probably wasn't, Officer Barham coolly pursued Thelma down the street, lights flashing, pulled her over and read her her options or the city's version of "Boy, have we got a deal for you."

She could take her ticket, pay the bail, go to court or traffic school for $100 or more or she could pay $55 to attend a 3-hour instructional get-together with Chief Murdo. The city keeps the $55 and Thelma comes away with her driving record as clean as a hound's tooth. An offer she couldn't refuse.

SO COUNCILMEMBER RUBIN attended the second of the City Hall traffic sessions on an "expensive, but informative" Saturday morning with 25 or so fellow penitents. Chief Murdo was "entertaining, nobody was bored," she said. And not the least of the morning were all-you-can-eat, gourmet bran and blueberry muffins and super coffee.

Needless to add, Thelma vowed to go forth and sin no more.

YOU CAN BET, of course, in these times of money-for-nothing (not to mention chicks-for-free), the state, it's dander up, isn't going to let the city get away with the Traffic Diversion. It's pretty certain that the cease and desist will come down Jan. 1 next. But the city will have diverted in the neighborhood of $55,000 by then. Nanny goat, nanny goat.

Police Reports

Stroll was the wrong place to be for Richmond

By Dawn Frasier

ALBANY — The Solano Stroll was a quiet one this year. Besides a couple of fights, the only arrest was of a Richmond man attending the stroll. The man's probation officer was also attending and recognized him. He was stopped at Solano and Tulare and arrested for an outstanding Alameda County Sheriff's Office no-bail warrant.

A San Pablo man is in custody at the Solano County Jail after fleeing from an officer who attempted to contact him for a vehicle code violation. The man reportedly led the officer on a chase, during which he did not stop at controlled intersections and traveled at a high rate of speed, damaging state property. The incident occurred at about 1:41 a.m. on Sept. 13.

A man reported that he fell asleep in a garage in the 800 block of Adams Street and that when he awoke, he had been padlocked in, with the phone wire cut.

Three people were contacted in a vehicle at Liquor Barn; their car had no plates. The three suspects, all from the same address, were all arrested. The woman and one man had no-bail warrants out of San Francisco; the man had a $5,000 warrant out of Daly City.

A bottle of Grand Marnier was found in the car; it was found to have been stolen from the Liquor Barn.

Someone entered Western Forge and Flange between Sept. 4 and Sept. 8 after cutting the wire fence, making a hole in the building and opening the sliding door. Metal products and power tools were taken.

During the same period, someone took scrap metal from the rear of Simpson Filtration; a large truck was used.

A Berkeley woman, aged 69, said that she was approached from behind at the rear of Safeway by a man "on a dead run." He pushed the cart away and grabbed her wallet, then fled southbound on Nielson. The incident occurred on the afternoon of Sept. 8.

The police department received a call from the Albany Bowl indicating that several people were going through cars in the lot that did not belong to them. Four arrests resulted. The suspects were Oakland residents. An 18-year-old was cited released; the other three were juveniles and were released to their parents.

A resident of a motel room in the 1000 block of San Pablo Avenue was sleeping in the room when a prowler was found going through her purse. The suspect fled on foot. The incident occurred at 5:37 a.m. on Sept. 13.

A 1985 Mazda 626 was reported stolen from Stannage and Solano on Sept. 13 or 14.

The rear plate was stolen from a vehicle in a carport in the 400 block of Stannage on Sept. 10. A tape player was taken from a Chevy Nova in the 500 block of Pierce by two suspects who were interrupted by a security guard at 3:07 a.m. on Sept. 11. One of the suspects pushed the guard before fleeing.

A battery was stolen from a 1977 Pontiac in the 1100 block of Dartmouth Avenue between noon and 9 p.m. on Sept. 7.

Retired man victimized in feigned accident scheme

By Dawn Frasier

EL CERRITO — A retired El Cerrito man was the victim of a scam when a male and a female suspect told him he had wrecked their car and asked for cash for damages. The man gave the couple a cashier's check; they left in a tan or yellow Dodge (1975 or '76) which had damage on the left side. No accident had occurred.

The suspects were described as a Hispanic man, aged 33 to 39, about 5-foot-9 and 135 pounds with black hair and brown eyes, and a white female with brown hair, about 5-foot-4, 130 pounds.

Mario's restaurant was burglarized between 12:01 and 12:30 a.m. on Sept. 6. The burglar(s) forced the door open, then took money from the safe and register.

A man kicked in the window at Jack-in-the-Box after he was told that they would not allow walkup service. The incident occurred on Sept. 6 at 2:17 a.m.

Police contacted a woman at El Cerrito Plaza on Sept. 9 when someone reported she had left her small daughter alone in her vehicle about 45 minutes while she was shopping at Lucky.

Someone stole a wallet from the fanny pack an El Cerrito woman was wearing while standing in line at the Sizzler on Aug. 21.

A Richmond man is the subject of an investigation after having been found in possession of five boxes full of bricks and rocks. The boxes had VCR/stereo labels on them. The man was contacted by police at Carlson Boulevard and Central Avenue at 6:36 p.m. on Sept. 7.

A Rodeo resident, stopped for a vehicle code violation at Carlson Boulevard and Sutter Avenue at 6:23 p.m. on Sept. 5, was found to be in possession of a white powdery substance.

Someone stole a bicycle from a carport in the 3400 block of Yosemite Avenue during the night of Sept. 7.

Stereos were reported stolen from two cars: a 1981 VW Rabbit parked in the 11200 block of San Pablo on Sept. 3 and a 1980 Honda Accord parked in the 3000 block of Carlson Boulevard on

A stereo was reported from a vehicle in the 16000 Sonoma Avenue on Sept. 12.

There were two injuries reported. In a three-car accident on the evening of Sept. 8, three drivers were taken to Bates Hospital complaining of pain. Drivers from Berkeley, Albany and San Francisco were involved in the accident which took place at Marin and Pershing.

Both vehicles were towed from an injury accident which took place at Solano and San Avenue. A Berkeley man was injured; the other driver was a Albany resident.

Non-injury accidents were reported at Gateview north of shington (two Albany men, Solano and San Pablo men, two incidents involving Solano and Berkeley residents, the first, Oakland and Marin residents in the second), and Avenue (Albany and Marin residents), San Pablo and Marin residents, and Richmond residents, Clay and Adams (Oakland Albany residents), and El Cerrito residents.

Eggs were thrown at a car in the 900 block of Polk Street. Markers were used to mark a window at the Yogurt Alley.

A cat was reported by a pellet gun on San Avenue.

Officers responded to calls concerning loud noise; recycling thefts reported on the 1000 block of Lynn and the 700 block of Sept. 9. A guitar was also stolen from the Honda.

On Sept. 4, a storage unit was taken from a 1978 Volvo parked in the 10700 block of Pablo Avenue.

A screwdriver was used to open a vehicle door in the block of Arlington Boulevard the night of Sept. 4. No loss from the vehicle. A car was pried open the same night, however (in the same block) the thief took the pull-out sleeve, an address book, motorcycle gloves from the car.

Someone smashed a window in the 2700 Sonoma Avenue during the night of Aug. 31.

Three shoplifters were arrested at Long's.

Curfew violates rights

Editor:

Curfews? In Albany?

Many of us were surprised to learn that the City of Albany is considering a curfew of 10 p.m. on weekdays and 11 p.m. on weekends for all persons under the age of 18, with a few specified exceptions.

We were even more surprised to learn that a curfew already exists for minors in Albany, with no exceptions. Obviously, the existing law is not being enforced, apparently because it is so clearly unconstitutional.

The new proposed ordinance, while allowing for some exceptions, would still prohibit a 16-year-old, with a drivers license and his or her own car, from eating in a restaurant in the Albany portion of Solano Avenue after 10 p.m. on weekdays. Why must we insist that they eat elsewhere? It would prohibit an after-10 p.m. stop for frozen yogurt in Albany; I guess we want to force the kids to go to Ortman's instead. The ordinance would essentially prohibit those affected, meaning both Albany and non-Albany residents, from patronizing Albany businesses "after hours." Why?

The proposed ordinance would also prevent a 16-year-old from walking the family dog, on his or her own initiative, after 10 p.m. or from visiting a friend, or from simply taking a peaceful after-homework stroll. In addition, it would take away my right as a parent to determine appropriate hours for my own children.

In other words, the proposed ordinance would prohibit peaceful activity by law-abiding citizens within the borders of Albany.

Proponents of the curfew argue that the ordinance is needed to fight crime. But the ordinance does not address criminal activity; instead, it addresses legal activity and prohibits it. We already have the power to stop persons engaged in illegal activity, we already have the power to stop persons when there is "probable cause" to believe that they are violating the law and we already have the ability to help those who are in danger or at risk of harm.

A curfew, on the other hand, simply takes away freedoms from people who are doing nothing wrong and takes away from parents the right to resolve appropriate limits with their own children.

Albany has an excellent Police Department which has everyone's support in the battle against crime and the battle to preserve our quality of life. But if we limit the rights and freedoms of law-abiding citizens, both minors and their parents, in order to fight criminals, then to some extent those battles have already been lost.

Matthew Rinaldi

Curfew law needs work

The Journal received copies of the following letters.

To all members of the Albany Community:

A new curfew ordinance is currently before the City Council. The proposed ordinance would govern the rights of minors to assemble and travel after the hours of 10 p.m. weekdays, and 11 p.m. on weekends. The curfew ordinance currently is supported by four of our five City Council members. The final vote needed to enact the curfew will occur at an upcoming council meeting, possibly this coming Monday, Sept. 21. The City Clerk's office, 528-5720, can provide final scheduling information.

I have asked The Journal to print the following letter which I sent to Police Chief Larry Murdo regarding the

El Cerrito plans budget changes

Earlier 'bare-bones' version not low enough

By Dawn Frasier

EL CERRITO — While waiting for specifics from city staff concerning cuts to be made in El Cerrito's budget, the City Council has been making plans, according to Mayor Norma Jellison.

Though the council already adopted what it considered to be a "bare-bones" budget earlier this summer, the adoption of the state budget two weeks ago altered California cities' financial outlook, as it did for cities all over California.

Estimates made after the state's budget was adopted indicated that over $300,000 in revenues would be lost to El Cerrito, necessitating either increased revenues from other sources or budget cuts.

Jellison said that El Cerrito would be concentrating on budget cuts. For example, though a rider was included in the state budget plan allowing cities to increase fees and assessments if costs to provide the services had increased, the mayor said the City Council is not planning to raise either the landscape and lighting assessment fee or utility taxes.

Primarily, she said, "I guess we're looking at service and staffing levels." As specific numbers come in, the city will be able to "fine tune" the budget, said Jellison. In the meantime, "at least we'll be looking at some directions in which we should move."

In other council action at its Sept. 8 meeting, Jellison said the subject of broadcasting council meetings on cable will continue to be pursued.

"The problem is that the council chambers are not wired," she said. The possibility of taping the meetings and broadcasting them on a delayed basis is being explored, she said.

The council also expressed its preference for a second BART parking structure to be erected near the El Cerrito Plaza station.

Consultants had submitted two plans (for sites near each of the El Cerrito stations) and two alternate plans, said Jellison. For Environmental Impact Report purposes and for CEQA requirements, she said, they must continue to look at both sites. "They had a primary plan and an alternate for each site," she said. "Now they have a preferred site and three alternates."

Albany OKs street sweeping plan

By Phyllis Lyon

ALBANY — Continuing the war against trash in the streets, the City Council last week approved a new street sweeping agenda, dubbed it "Operation Clean Sweep" and hoped for the best.

"We're trying to do a better job for everybody," Public Works Director Ron Lefler told the council. He devised the new plan, which replaces last year's four-zone division of the city with designated side-of-street sweeping.

The north side of residential streets will be swept Sept. 21, the south side, Sept. 22, the east side, Sept. 23 and the west side, Sept. 24, according to Lefler. Sweeping will begin at 8 a.m.

San Pablo Avenue and Solano Avenue east of Jackson will be swept Fridays in September between 4 a.m. and 8 a.m.; the frontage road and Cleveland Avenue north of Washington will be swept Sept. 25, between 8 a.m. and noon.

If the new schedule works out, residential streets will be swept in the future every three months and commercial areas more frequently with notices posted the month prior to sweeping.

Lefler said last year's monthly sweep of residential streets just wasn't worth the time and effort it took.

"Street sweeping, regardless of the frequency, will continue to be ineffective unless vehicles are removed from the street before sweeping," he said.

But short of hitting residents on the noses with two-by-fours, councilmembers were at a loss as to how to get cars to the opposite side of the street on proposed sweeping days.

The Berkeley plan, combining no-parking signs — Lefler estimated 400 would be required citywide — with ticketing and enforcement, as well as mailing sweeping schedules to every household, was deemed too expensive in lean times by councilmembers.

The council opted to rely on a public relations effort to engender a volunteer car-moving effort. Notices of the sweeping schedule will be posted at City Hall and other public places and include a request for residents to park across the street on sweep days, remove grass and weeds that may be hanging in the gutter, and, maybe most crucial, not complain when neighbors park in front of their houses.

A peculiar inequity in the plan was brought up by Mayor Bill Cain. There are 20 miles of east-west streets in Albany and five miles of north-south streets. This was swept under the rug as an insignificant factor.

Celebrating 75 years of support

The ladies of the Berkeley Clinic Auxiliary, which raises money for various health care causes, celebrated its 75th year on Sat., Sept. 15 with a reception at their thrift store, The Turnabout Shop. The store offers donated merchandise for sale, and is run by volunteers; all proceeds go toward the causes the Auxiliary supports. The store is open Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is located at 10052 San Pablo Ave. in El Cerrito.

Baby Kerri reunited with Mom

A 41-year-old Richmond woman suspected of kidnapping Baby Kerri from a Berkeley hospital three months ago is in custody at the Berkeley City Jail in lieu of $250,000 bail.

Berkeley police Capt. Phil Doran says police have not yet finished their paperwork and presented the case to the Alameda County District Attorney's Office so he does not expect Karen Lea Hughes to be formally charged and arraigned until tomorrow at the earliest.

Doran said police are "confident" that Hughes is the only person who was involved in the kidnapping of Baby Kerri, who was taken from Alta Bates Medical Center June 12 when she was only 2 days old.

Berkeley police arrested Hughes and rescued Baby Kerri at Hughes' Richmond residence Tuesday after a neighbor phoned police because she had suspicions about whether Baby Kerri was actually Hughes' child.

Meanwhile, an FBI spokesman said that a profile developed by the agency's behavioral scientists accurately describes Hughes. Rick Smith of the FBI's San Francisco offices says the profile described the probable kidnapper as a woman under 25 or over 40 year who lived within a 25-mile radius of the crime and had suffered a miscarriage.

The profile, developed at the agency's Quantico, Va., facility, says the suspect would have depicted Baby Kerri as being her own baby.

The infant was reunited with her mother, 16-year-old Jessica Mammini, Tuesday night at Alta Bates Hospital and has gone home with her mother to Gilroy.

El Cerrito Newsline

by Lori Eattock

"Reduce, re-use, recycle!" best expresses the theme of the third annual City-Wide Garage Sale, scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 26. El Cerrito residents are invited to sign up to hold their individual garage sales on that day and participate in this giant re-use project.

We at the El Cerrito Recycling Center, sponsor of the City-Wide Garage Sale, educate the public to be conscientious consumers: to reduce waste by buying products with less packaging and to buy only what they need.

After reducing consumption, the next step is to re-use. Either sell your usable items at a garage sale, donate your usable goods to a charitable organization such as Goodwill or Salvation Army, or give them away to a neighbor or friend or re-use.

The next step is to recycle. Bring your scrap aluminum or metal, paper, glass, magazines, newspapers to the El Cerrito Recycling Center. The last two City-Wide Garage Sales were planned to coincide with the anniversary of the October 17th Loma Prieta Earthquake. The idea for this sale is to help residents clear out their garages to make them safer.

This year's sale will be Sept. 26, just before the regularly scheduled fall clean-up. Items which can be re-used through the garage sale or recycled at the Recycling Center can then easily be disposed of with regular garbage or the fall clean-up. Garbage service is provided by East Bay Sanitary. The fall clean-up schedule can be found on page 12 of the "City of El Cerrito Fall/Winter Brochure."

For more information about this service, call 437-4321. Applications for the City-Wide Garage Sale are available to El Cerrito residents who want to participate in the sale. Applications may be found in the "City of El Cerrito Fall/Winter Brochure" and at city offices. The application fee is $7.50. Today, Sept. 17, is the last day to submit your application.

Make your check payable to the City of El Cerrito and bring it to the Community Center (7007 Moeser Lane, El Cerrito) before 5 p.m.

The fee pays for staff time and advertising costs. The sale will be advertised in the classified ads of at least eight newspapers and in stories generated through press releases.

For prospective shoppers, the City-Wide Garage Sale participant list will be made available to the public from Monday, Sept. 21 to Friday, Sept. 25 at the following locations: 1) Community Center, 7007 Moeser Lane; 2) City Hall, 10890 San Pablo Ave.; 3) Recycling Center, 7501 Schmidt Lane; and 4) Senior Center, 6500 Stockton Ave.

On Sept. 26, the day of the garage sale, lists will be available at the Community Center, 7007 Moeser Lane.

For more information about this event, call Lori at 215-4350.

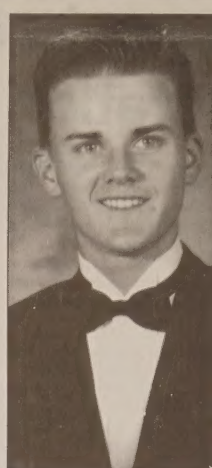

Recycling Center news

We've made a few changes here at the El Cerrito Recycling Center. Glass is now located against the fence and must be sorted by color into separate bins for green, brown, and clear glass. The company which melts the glass bottles and makes them into new bottles prefers color-sorted glass. Separated glass has a higher value than mixed glass, which makes the city recycling program more cost effective.

We have placed example bottles above the bins into which they go to help you decide where a certain bottle or jar should be placed. If you have a question, please ask our staff people. They will be happy to answer your question and add your bottles to our example ledge.

Please remember that we cannot accept broken plates or mugs (ceramics), Pyrex baking dishes, light bulbs, or window and mirror glass. All of these items must be placed in the garbage; they are not recyclable.

Other changes here at the Recycling Center are the location of scrap steel, scrap aluminum, and auto batteries. All of these items have been moved to the west side of the yard. White office paper is now located next to the office door where the glass bin used to be.

Eagle Scout

Alex McMurray, El Cerrito High School graduate, recently received his Eagle Scout award. McMurray is a member of Boy Scout Troop 113. For his Eagle project, he organized his troop in constructing shelving units for use in El Cerrito's day care centers, where he has volunteered for several years. McMurray plans to study journalism at Ricks College in Idaho.

El Cerrito upgrades its roads and curbs

By Dawn Frasier

EL CERRITO — Two 1992 public works projects have been completed in the city: both streets and curbs have been improved.

The 1992 Street Maintenance Program was completed in the first week of August by Gallagher and Burk of Oakland. Several El Cerrito streets were upgraded (according to a contract authorized by the council in June). They included Barrett and a portion of Potrero Avenue.

The cost of the repair to Barrett Avenue was considerably less than had been anticipated. The expenditure for the 1992 program came to $333,000, rather than the $662,000 budget estimate.

City Engineer Todd Teachout said that an engineering study completed on the Barrett pavement showed that a complete reconstruction of the street was not needed; an overlay was accurate and resulted in a much lower cost.

In addition, he said, the Barrett Avenue portion of the expenditure had been on a list of streets proposed for treatment under SB140, State-local partnership funds. "It's been proposed for about three years," he said. "We finally did it."

Staff estimates that about $20,000 may be received from SB140 funding to further offset the street maintenance program cost.

This is the first year of a five-year roadway maintenance plan, said Teachout, who noted that the savings this year will enhance the 1993 program budget.

A wheelchair ramp installation project was completed by Ghilotti Brothers in the third week of July. Teachout said that this is the third in a series of projects to provide curb cuts for handicapped access around the city.

It was a citizens' advocacy group, El Cerrito Access, that developed the curb cut plan. Teachout said that as funds become available, the city has been moving down that group's priority list for locations for the curb cuts.

The first project involved Moeser Lane, the second a portion of San Pablo Avenue. This year, access ramps were installed on Fairmont and a portion of Central Avenue, he said.

The total project cost was $44,134. A Community Block Development Grant — geared toward handicapped access projects — funded 75 percent of the project, Teachout said.

Officer exonerated in shooting

By Dawn Frasier

EL CERRITO — Officer Donald Horgan has been exonerated of any wrongdoing in a shooting which occurred Sept. 3 in Richmond.

According to El Cerrito's Captain Bruce Nelson, Officer Horgan was patrolling the Discount Mart parking lot on Cutting Boulevard at about 10 a.m. that morning when two men entered the lot in a vehicle which appeared to have three bullet holes in the door.

The situation looked suspicious, said Nelson, and when Horgan had the driver and passenger step out of the car for questioning, they took off in two separate directions. Horgan chased the driver on foot; the pursuit led the two into the City of Richmond.

Nelson said Horgan reportedly saw the suspect pull out two handguns and toss them over a fence, then vault over himself. At that point, said Nelson, Horgan drew his service weapon, ordering the suspect to halt and to stay away from the handguns.

"It was when the (suspect) reached for one of the weapons that Officer Horgan fired two shots, one of which hit him in the jaw," Nelson said.

The suspect was taken to John Muir Hospital in serious condition. Backup support did not arrive for Horgan until the incident was over.

As of Monday afternoon, Nelson did not know what the legal status of the suspect was. He said the district attorney's office had informed him, however, that Horgan had been completely exonerated in the incident.

Civil rights leader speaks at local NAACP celebration

EL CERRITO — "Honoring Our Past, Fulfilling Our Present, Preparing For Our Future" is the theme for the silver anniversary celebration of the El Cerrito National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

El Cerrito NAACP received its charter from the National Office on Sept. 14, 1967, while the City of El Cerrito was having a week-long celebration of its golden anniversary.

The El Cerrito NAACP's celebration will conclude with a special program on Saturday evening from 6 to 8 p.m. at Mira Vista Community Church. The church is located at 7075 Cutting Blvd., El Cerrito, one-half block from the intersection of Cutting and Arlington.

Bishop Roy C. Nichols is the featured speaker for this program.

He is a longtime resident of the East Bay and a well known activist and organizer. He served as pastor of the South Berkeley Community Church and later of the Downs Memorial United Methodist Church in North Oakland.

Although he is retired, Bishop Nichols is in great demand for speaking engagements and as a consultant on a national scale.

Attorney Charles E. Wilson, president of the El Cerrito NAACP, says Bishop Nichols has unquestionably paid his dues in the civil rights struggle.

In the early 1960s he led the picket line in Berkeley in front of Woolworth's and Kresge stores to protest the way these stores were abusing young African-Americans at their lunch counters in the South.

He served as chairman of the Berkeley NAACP-Education Committee, and made the NAACP's presentation to Berkeley's then all-white Board of Education. Subsequently, the Board appointed a representative study committee to develop plans for integrating the Berkeley School System.

In 1963, he was elected to Berkeley's five-member Board of Education, the first African-American to serve on the board. He later became its president.

The program will begin at 7:15 p.m. It will be preceded by a social hour where guests can view the awards and other memorabilia and enjoy delicious finger food catered by A&W Catering Service.

The meeting is open to the public with no charge. Del Williams, 845-7807, is general chairman.

Writer explores morality through her mysteries

"I think writing mysteries allows you to explore moral issues within a fictional framework. The mystery is the final morality story. In so much fiction today there is no moral universe, but in a mystery your characters play questions of guilt and innocence — but just within that genre. That is what appealed to me."

So Linda Grant explained her interest and joy in writing mysteries. And lest you think that her writings are merely morality stories, believe me, they are fascinating, can't-put-them-down stories, with a great protagonist. With a new book, Love Nor Money, coming out soon, Linda Grant talked with me about the one I had just read, Blind Trust.

She said she had wanted to explore issues of the aftermath of the Vietnam War. "That was the defining event for my generation, so I wanted to explore for myself what that meant for me and for the people of my generation."

That was not the central theme of the book, "but dealing with persons so heavily influenced by the war was a way of discovering for myself what that legacy was all about. And in the end, I wrote it was about trust."

"All of us lost our trust during that time. If you opposed the war, you found you couldn't trust the government. If you went and fought, you couldn't trust the people who sent you. The issues brought to the surface keep me interested and provide a freshness for me."

Although trust is also an issue in Love Nor Money, this time it speaks for children and what is just, and about child abuse, an issue that is presently being looked into closely.

Linda Grant had written two books before she started writing mysteries. Her first was Teaching for the Two Sided Mind, after which she wrote one on a word processing program. That program, she says ruefully, died one week after the book came out. It was after that that she decided she enjoyed writing, but really enjoyed writing fiction, especially mysteries.

Community Folk

By Clara-Rae Genser

Linda finds research interesting. She has spent a year or more on one book, researching and building the characters. "I like a book to find out about something that is important to me," she says.

Grant has lived in this area most of her life, coming to Oakland when she was 10. She graduated from Stanford, and then spent two years in the Peace Corps in Ethiopia where she was involved in alternative education.

Later she trained teachers, developed materials and ultimately did the research that led to her book about the two sided mind.

Most of her research was on how teachers teach and how kids learn. She was interested in problem solving and creativity in the classroom. "Kids are creative naturally, but often cannot do it in the classroom."

Married to Andrew Grant, a teacher at St. Mary's College, Linda is the mother of two daughters, Erin, 18, and Megan, 14. Erin is in college at Bryn Mawr.

Linda is also very active with Sisters in Crime; at present she is on the steering committee of the national organization. She has served as publicity chair and is currently research chair.

Susan Dunlap and Charlene Weir, mystery writers who have previously appeared in these pages, agreed with Linda that this is a very important organization. There are 1,400 members nationwide and in other countries. The Bay Area chapter, newly formed, is growing and is very active. "We do what women do so well: support each other."

Large things have happened in the mystery field in the last few years, Grant reports.

"When I first started there were women writing about women, but their books were not widely available. The field was dominated by American men, British women. American women are now a strong and growing voice. And they are offering kinds of characters of all ages. And lots of humor."

And that is important to her. She wants to mystify and captivate, but I also want to make you laugh."

Catherine, her protagonist, placed herself in a world where she is in great jeopardy. She is not like violence, and even she does not like fear.

She is someone who can't stand that dangerous world and that war or cripple her.

"So a lot of what I explore is what she thinks about."

Catherine protects herself with aikido. And Linda is a devotee of this self-defense form.

Linda Grant has been nominated for two awards: Nor Money has been nominated for the Anthony award as the best novel of 1992, and a short story, "Last Rites," has been nominated for the Best Short Story Award. In addition, an anthology she wrote, Sisters in Crime, is also being nominated.

The nominations themselves are tremendously important and satisfying. Good luck, Linda the Bouchercon, The World Mystery Convention.

Thank you, Susan Dunlap, for suggesting Linda to me. What a joy to talk with talented women!

And, again I invite all of you to give me your ideas: interest, people, events, organizations, travels, etc. Please write to 555 Pierce St., No. 443, Alameda 94706 or call 525-4385.

These are my address and phone number, not that of the Journal.

Diane Elizabeth Clymer of Albany has been accepted to the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and will study flute beginning this fall with Timothy Day.

A graduate of El Cerrito High School, Diane has studied with Julie McKenzie in San Francisco and Robin McKee in Mill Valley. Her father, Rich Clymer, is a seismologist. Her mother, Linda Clymer, is a physical therapist.

The El Cerrito home of June Boblitt was recently the location of a going away party hosted by Lisa Boblitt and fiancé Matt Koenen. The party was held in honor of two departing members of El Cerrito's Contra Costa Civic Theater Management Staff: Kimberly Mayer, moving to Manhattan to obtain her masters degree in social administration from Columbia University, and Matt Flynn entering the MFA program in scene design at UCLA's School of Theatre, Film, and Television.

Kim, a member of CCCT's management staff, has also been resident costume designer for several years, with costuming credits ranging from such productions as "1776" and last season's "Some Enchanted Evening."

Matt, CCCT's resident stage designer, served as producer and set designer for this summer's production of "Good News" and has been a member of CCCT's management staff for several years.

Included among the many CCCT alumni attending the party to wish Matt and Kim well was Barney, Lisa's golden retriever, who played Sandy in CCCT's 1985 production of "Annie."

supermarkets.

An informal survey subsequently revealed that the two most in-demand items had been the black-and-gold shorts offered by Barbara Boxer's campaign corps and a large Clinton/Gore campaign button bearing a photograph of the two candidates.

Democrats open Contra Costa campaign headquarters

The Democrats of West Contra Costa threw themselves a party recently, and 400 of them showed up to enjoy it.

The occasion was the official opening of the united Democratic Campaign Headquarters at 205 41st Street in Richmond.

For the event, the building was resplendent with a red, white and blue Clinton/Gore banner and campaign signs for Congressman George Miller, U.S. Senate Candidates Barbara Boxer and Dianne Feinstein, State Senators Nichols Petris and Dan Boatwright and Assemblymen Tom Bates and Bob Campbell.

Tables were loaded with food, both homemade and deli fare, and the party faithful balanced their little paper plates while they renewed friendships from previous campaigns.

Dozens signed up as volunteers, promising to work in the headquarters, to work in the precincts, to work on the phones, to run errands, and to staff campaign tables at Hilltop Mall and in front of

CITY OF ALBANY GENERAL PLAN REVISION AND UPDATE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARINGS

DRAFT GENERAL PLAN FINAL ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT AND THE REVISIONS TO THE DRAFT GENERAL PLAN

The City of Albany, as part of the General Plan Revision and Update Program, has now prepared revised the Draft General Plan and also responses to the comments for the Final Environmental Impact Report. The revisions and the responses to the comments are the result of the public comments that have been received to date about the Draft General Plan and the Draft EIR.

The revisions and the responses to comments pertaining to the Final EIR will be available by September 1992 at the following locations:

Albany City Hall, Planning Department, 1000 San Pablo Avenue. Copies of the draft plan and the EIR may be borrowed or purchased. Copies of the draft plan and the draft EIR are $15.00 each. A looseleaf binder available for $5.00. Copies of the Final EIR Response to Comments and the Draft General Plan Revisions are available for $7.00. The technical appendices for the documents are available for an additional $5.00. City Hall is open between 8:30 AM and 5:00 PM, Monday through Friday.

Albany Library, 1216 Solano Avenue. Copies of all documents are available at the library's reference desk, and may be checked out for the standard loan period. The Albany Library is open from 10:00 AM to 9:00 PM, Tuesday and Wednesday, and 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM, Thursday through Saturday. The library is closed Sunday and Monday.

The new General Plan, once adopted by the City, will act as a policy document to guide the land use and decisions for the City throughout the next twenty years. It includes analysis and data about major issues such as housing, land use, park and open space, recreation, public safety, noise and traffic and circulation.

PUBLIC HEARING

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1992 - 8:00 PM

The Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing to listen to the revisions to the Draft EIR and to review the responses to comments for the Final Environmental Impact Report. The Commission may develop their own recommendations and comments about the draft plan and the revisions to forward to the City Council.

THE REVIEW PROCESS

Since the initial publication of the draft General Plan and Draft EIR in November, 1991, five public meetings have been held to obtain public comments. The City and its consultants have considered all comments that have been received, either in writing or during oral testimony, and have now completed revisions to the original draft General Plan. In addition, as required by law, a set of responses has been prepared to comments received about the draft EIR. These responses, along with the original comment letters to the draft EIR comprise the Final EIR for the General Plan.

Once the City Planning and Zoning Commission has considered the revisions and the Final EIR, the Commission will forward their comments and recommendations to the City Council. The Council will then hold separate public hearing(s) to consider all information, revisions and comments prior to taking action on the New General Plan.

The City looks forward to all interested citizens commenting and participating in this important review process. For more information about the General Plan update and revision process, or if you wish to be added to the mailing list to receive future notification, please call the Albany Planning Department at (510) 538-2300.

Important Note: If you challenge the Draft EIR or the General Plan in court, you may be limited to only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearings described in this notice, or to correspondence delivered to the City of Albany by the date listed in this notice. In particular, failure to comment on the adequacy of the Final EIR may preclude future legal action alleging non-compliance with CEQA. The focus of the comments should be on the adequacy of the responses to comments that have been prepared on the Final EIR as a whole, rather than on the information or findings contained in the Draft EIR. You should explain the basis for your comments and where possible, submit data or references in support of your comments.

El Cerrito Chamber of Commerce

School Notebook

Happy Birthday, El Cerrito!

The Sept. 28th business luncheon meeting will be held at Chevy's in the El Cerrito Plaza at noon, at which time Dr. Herbert Cole, superintendent of school for the RUSD, will be our speaker. With school underway, Dr. Cole will give us an overview of this progress and allow time for questions from the members. Reservations for this event are required by Sept. 25; call chamber staff at 233-7040.

The "Italian Fun-Feast" will be held 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., Oct. 14, at the Cerrito City Club, with first vice president Clyde Figone. The event will feature accordion music by John Fiore, door prizes and an opportunity drawing.

Members will be donating the many prizes to be offered, including dinners, a Reno trip, savings bonds, a savings account, theater tickets and much more.

For ticket information, call staff at 233-7040. The prices are $10 for adults and $5 for children 12 and under. Proceeds will benefit the chamber's operating fund.

Happy Birthday, El Cerrito

As the City of El Cerrito celebrates the 75th anniversary of its incorporation (actual date: Aug. 23), we extend best wishes.

The quiet residential neighborhoods, extended shopping areas and the El Cerrito Plaza are a big contrast to the days of "way back when."

This town was swinging in

Bill Kerber, El Cerrito Chamber of Commerce past president, welcomes Little Caesar's Pizza co-owner, Brenda Jackson, into the chamber as a new member. Little Caesar's is located near Fairmount Avenue at 10003 San Pablo Ave. (559-9576).

those early days of the '30s and '40s, known widely for all the action taking place with the dog racing track and all of the gambling houses. Looking back on those days brings many memories of good times with good friends.

Things quieted down in the mid 1940s, when the Good Government League was formed, the City Council was changed and El Cerrito was developed into more stable residential areas. The city now boasts the oldest residents in this part of the county, with the children per household ratio very low.

The population grew from 7,000 in the '40s to 18,000 by the '50s and 25,000 by the '60s. Today, there are approximately 23,000 in El Cerrito.

Time for Round-up

The fall Round-Up Sale is set for Thursday-Saturday, Oct. 15 through Oct. 17, and looks again to be bigger and better than the last.

This "Shop El Cerrito" promotion continues to be very popular since its inception in 1973 for both merchants and shoppers from El Cerrito and surrounding areas.

By participating in the sale tabloid, which appears in The Journal, Family Fair, Berkeley Voice and The Montclairian, merchants receive excellent advertising coverage. At the same time, they are supporting the chamber, as a portion of ad fees is rebated for our operating fund.

All this is made possible by Family Fair and the efforts of Sewall Glinetnick.

Questions on the ads can be addressed to Sewall at 237-7777.

Time to think about colleges

By Dawn Frasier

It's time for both juniors and seniors to start making plans for college. At Albany High School, college reps are already visiting campus and scheduling appointments with interested students. Students should sign up in the counseling office to talk to a representative from UC-Santa Cruz on Tuesday (Sept. 22) at 1:15 p.m., from Mills College at 11:05 on Wednesday (Sept. 23), or from Claremont-McKenna at 10:45 on Friday (Sept. 25).

A representative from Pepperdine University will be visiting De La Salle High School in Concord at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 21. Sign up at AHS to join a group attending the session.

At El Cerrito High School, school dean Ed Francis is currently scheduling appointments with representatives from a number of colleges. So far scheduled: Williams College, Sept. 30 at 12:20 p.m.; Marymount, Oct. 5 at 8:30 a.m.; and Sarah Lawrence, Oct. 12 at 1:30 p.m. Amherst and others will be scheduled soon. Students should listen for bulletin announcements and sign up on the door to Room 104.

The AHS Athletic Boosters were active at the Solano Stroll, selling T-shirts and sweatshirts, as well as raffle tickets, to raise money for school sports. The Boosters were to meet Tuesday night to begin planning for the year; call 526-3915 to find out how you can help.

Challenge Associates is again presenting a Challenge Day for local middle school students; this week the program comes to Adams Middle School. The group, along with the assistance of volunteer staff, parents and high school Youth Educators, facilitates a large group and small group experience designed to encourage open communication, acceptance of others and self-esteem.

The consulting group came to Portola Middle School last spring and will be presented to new sixth-graders there later this year.

Castro Elementary School celebrates back-to-school with its annual barbecue today. The official Back-to-School night is Sept. 24. Between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m., parents will visit their children's classrooms and hear presentations from the teachers concerning the year's curriculum, as well as their hopes and expectations for the class.

The board of the Castro P.T.A. is scheduled to meet two weeks from now on Thursday, Oct. 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Cornell Elementary students had a special treat yesterday. Again in a traditional celebration, those kids who signed up for a barbecue lunch were served by teachers and staff. A kickball game followed, with teams made up of a mixture of students and teachers.

Back-to-School night at Cornell is this Thursday from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Principal Craig Boyan reports that several special assemblies are being planned, including a visit from a cow in October. More details will follow.

Donna Butcher and Belinda Lum head the Cornell P.T.A. this year.

WORD OF MOUTH

By John McNulty

What restaurant serves real maple syrup along with its pancakes, includes Jarlsberg cheese among its cheese selections and Ben & Jerry's Vermont all natural ice cream for desserts? A pretty unusual restaurant to be sure.

Does Word of Mouth mean weird? For your father-in-law from Agate Springs, Utah, weird may be just the word he would use. But in the Bay Area the Royal Cafe (811 San Pablo Ave., Albany, near Solano Ave.; 525-6066) is a taste leader.

Breakfast and lunch are fresh food experiences. The omelette choices, of which there are at least 35 on the menu and specials board, include seasonal vegetable ingredients and ethnic flavorings, like teriyaki and pesto. Return visits are necessary to satisfy the eclectic appetite.

Continuing its month long eight anniversary celebration is Peking Duck (1713 Webster St., Alameda; 865-2848; parking) Restaurant. The house specialty, Peking Duck (repetitious, aren't we), is heavily discounted and sweet Hoisin Sauce stands waiting for aficionados of this traditional Chinese favorite.

Other special prices are available on dinner now, during the celebration.

At six minutes after high noon weekdays, the food preparation and service staff of Paoli's Clam Bucket (1155 Third St., at Adeline, Oakland; 451-5900; parking) go into high gear. Customers coming from the docks, the courthouse, military bases and businesses located near and far line up at the order station.

Three daily specials and a host of regular menu items provide a selection to suit just about anybody. At this time, the rush of customers and efficient movements of the crew calling orders and delivering steaming plates of pasta, meats and vegetables verges on ballet.

Owner Deno Paoli tells WoM that six minutes after noon is the time when the lunch action hits. Breakfast and dinner are served here too; the restaurant will make special accommodations for large groups. Fun, filling and quality cooking.

Word of Mouth asked cook/partner Geoff Deetz of California Topless Pizza (3814 Piedmont Ave., Oakland; 450-0100/ FAX 450-0101) where he had gotten the idea for a build it yourself pizza.

"I had been thinking about it for three years," Deetz told WoM. "I haven't seen a do-it-yourself pizza set-up like our customers get here."

Customers pass the salad bar and with pizza dough ready they scoop out the sauce and ingredients they want to adorn the top. The waiter will take the completed congregation of ingredients into the kitchen.

Later, a freshly baked, personalized pizza arrives at the table.

"We get some pretty unusual pizzas here, but everyone seems to be pretty happy about theirs."

Might as well take note of the cooking coming from the kitchen of Augusta's Cafe Restaurant (2755 Telegraph Ave., Berkeley near Ashby; 548-3140). Word of Mouth gets around. Chef Darin Cavanaugh has been leading Augusta's reputation to new heights.

Yes, the foods are prepared creatively, but, best of all, they taste delicious and there is sufficient quantity to satisfy the hungriest diner.

One recent specials list included Pyrenees-style trout (stuffed with almonds, onions, garlic, raisins and lemon zest). This came with new potatoes and roasted egg plant.

Dining in the vine- and canopy-covered patio is delightful on a warm late afternoon or evening.

A good spot for a value-priced meal of Chinese food in comfortable surroundings is Shaung Tung Restaurant (917 San Pablo Ave., near Solano Ave., Albany; 526-4374). Whether you choose mu shu pork (pancakes included) or kung pao shrimp, you may expect well prepared foods and friendly treatment.

This is a very popular spot with local business people on lunch hour. As you might expect, the menu here is some four pages long, in small print, and the simple storefront does not boast of the quality cooking found inside. Make a visit there soon.

Glad to see the return of the Guzman family to the kitchen and ownership of La Pinata Restaurant No. 2 (3285 Lake Shore Ave., Oakland; 893-7670). The restaurant features delicious Mexican foods and a friendly bar, too.

Entrepreneurs are invited to call WoM at 339-4035 with hot dining and entertainment tips.

have my freedom."

Piccioito agrees. "We've had random bomb threats and small fires set here, even though we don't have much to complain about," he said. "I think people will be even angrier now."

The topic is a hot one at school this week, said Piccioito: "I think it's on most people's minds; all my friends are against it."

Jim Perrero is one of the teachers who used that interest to educational advantage on Monday. Perrero teaches American Experience, the senior government course. This year he has honors students in his class; most are headed toward advanced placement history in the spring. On Monday, he found that the campus closure discussion fit right in with a unit on decision-making.

Most of the students in his class are opposed to the closure for a number of reasons, he said.

The main reason students concentrated on is that they don't think the move will be effective, he said. "Some felt that if you have all these kids jammed together on campus, kids who normally disperse and get out of each other's way ... combining them could be volatile."

Perrero added that even those few who thought it might not be such a bad idea were basing their responses on whether administrators could prove it would work.

In general, he said, the students "are not buying the security argument." Many questioned, for example, how closing the campus at lunchtime would keep a non-student who really wanted to make contact with a student from doing so before or after school.

They wondered, he said, how a campus can really be sealed off and secured to accomplish the goals being cited.

And the loss of personal freedom was another major topic — especially for seniors who are only months away from college and almost complete independence. "They're asking, 'Why are we being penalized because of these extraordinary incidents?'" Perrero said. "They see it as an unfair (response) to a societal problem."

Specifically, he said, while some resisted even the closure of Richmond High School, "they felt overall that El Cerrito shouldn't have to deal with the problem. 'If it happened at Richmond High School, Richmond High should deal with it,' they said."

Perrero also noted, however, two responses he encountered that reflected the youthful outlook of his students. "A lot weren't convinced something could happen to them," he said. Those students believed the recent violent incidents occurred in part because the students involved were those who "would tend to hang around" the kind of people likely to get in trouble.

Students also were interested in attending last night's board meeting, he said ... until they realized it was the night of the annual Senior Potluck.

Some students were planning to go to the board meeting last night, according to Ted Piccioito's mother, Carol Piccioito teaches at Pinole Valley High School, the other campus involved in a recent shooting.

"Kids were passing around a petition," she said. "But they were astute enough to know that names on a list would not be effective in a board discussion and were discussing attending the meeting."

Piccioito herself believes that the decision might create a detrimental atmosphere at the school.

Just the program "havoc" that would be created should an extra lunch period be added would be bad enough, she said.

"I feel they should give it a trial run at Richmond High School rather than throwing it at everyone at once," she said, adding that Pinole students are not at all happy that their campus will be closed, too.

Piccioito believes that the random gang problems present in the area of Richmond High may justify closure of that school, "but it doesn't seem to be happening on other campuses," she said.

El Cerrito High School is one that has had a peaceful history, according to Captain Bruce Nelson of the El Cerrito P.D.

Nelson cites two reasons: "For one thing, El Cerrito High School is in a residential area, not on a main thoroughfare," he said. "Outsiders are far more recognizable."

Secondly, he added, "We (police) have a good working relationship with the administration at the high school and with RUSD officers, one or two of whom have been there for a number of years."

When asked about the possibility of increased violence if the campus be closed, Nelson said that was a definite possibility.

ECHS principal Paul J. reported, however, that in talking with parents Monday the major concern was increased violence but not the school's program. Efforts be made to keep only one period rather than adding a second, he said. That will be such things as expanding services.

A second topic for discussion was the development of lunch activities to keep students smoke-free. She said a survey of all restaurant owners in town who have banned smoking showed 86 percent reported improved patronage or no change.

The only dissenting voice on the council was non-smoker Councilmember Robert Good, who called the ordinance "draconian." Good said the statistics showing the ill effects of second-hand smoke "defy common sense."

Good said he will move to put the anti-smoking issue on the ballot to let the voters decide. Indications were that Good will have a hard time finding a second when the ordinance comes up for final passage on Oct. 3.

The ordinance bans smoking in all public indoor areas in the city except bars, homes, 70 percent of the rooms in a motel, tobacco stores and at private parties held in a hotel or restaurant. Employers may designate enclosed employee smoking areas at their businesses with the verifiable guarantee that no smoke escapes into the rest of the building. Business owners are free to declare their whole establishment smoke-free, according to the new law.

Smoking is banned in public sections of bowling alleys, retail stores, restaurants, theaters, health facilities, polling places, taxis, elevators and City Hall, among other places specified in the ordinance.

The ordinance also forbids giving away cigarettes in public and, citing the fact that no other addictive drug or cancer-causing product is sold in vending machines, bans cigarette machines everywhere except in bars.

City Attorney Robert Zweben reported that he had received calls from attorneys representing vending machine operators who have litigation pending concerning banning the machines and revisions to the ordinance may be required before final passage.

Outdoor smokers are also required to stay a "reasonable distance" away from buildings to keep smoke away from the non-smokers inside. The city administrator will determine unreasonable distances.

In initiating the smoking law, the council found that tobacco smoke is a "major contributor to particulate indoor pollution," that second-hand or "sidestream" smoke is a health hazard to children, senior citizens and non-smokers with respiratory diseases and that the sickness and death caused by smoking is a heavy and avoidable financial drain on the community.

Smoking causes fires, burns and ash stains on merchandise resulting in economic losses to businesses, they said.

Violators will be fined $50 to $100 for the first offense, $100 to $500 for the second, and may have their business license revoked for three violations in a calendar year. The smoking ordinance, which becomes law 120 days after final passage, will be enforced by the city police, fire and planning departments.

commodate more students buying lunches.

"Closing campuses will raise another set of issues to deal with," he said. Among them is the possibility that the decision may actually create more violence among students while providing better security against outsiders.

Ihara said members of the community have already been in contact with the district expressing that concern.

One board member, Karen Ortega, says that she has already received many calls from both students and parents expressing the same concern — and that she expects to receive many more as the decision is being made.

People are worried that "territorial wars" may erupt on campus, with students confined into a smaller space. Groups, she said, may be "forced into smaller areas," with resulting hostility between them.

She agrees that when you have "young bodies with all that energy, you will have incidents."

But Ortega is in favor of the closure partly, it seems, because she doesn't know what the alternative would be.

She doesn't see the closure of just Richmond High as a viable option, for example. "If we just closed one campus — where we've recently had the greatest number of incidents — the students might feel like they were being singled out," she said.

Carding students wouldn't work at this point because students so rarely carry their identification, she said. Ortega noted, however, that "students are good at carrying their cards at sports events," because they know they're necessary.

When asked whether they would carry them on campus all the time if they knew the alternative was a closed campus, Ortega said "the manpower it would take to card people" would be a major expense.

Expense will enter into the picture should campuses close, however. Ortega cited expenses ranging from increased food services to the possibility of fencing of certain areas.

When asked how lunchtime closures would prevent before and after-school incidents, Ortega stressed the fact that the board can really only address the safety and that making sure the safe during that time is a priority.

"The whole question of violence is getting so bad, all over the country," she said, noting some schools around the area have found metal detectors one solution.

As to the message sending campuses, Ortega expressed sympathy with "the majority of students that can handle the freedom (who) will pay for the percentage of students — especially the non-students — bringing the violence onto campus."

The majority of students who've phoned her, she said, "feel like we're taking away rights." In response, Ortega said she would like to manage "the small problem" causing the problem, "not causing the majority to suffer."

"What will the law do with them?" she asked.

As far as the decision is needed, Ortega hoped that it would be invited to participate. "They're the ones we're listening to," she said.

proposed curfew.

I hope to stimulate some discussion within the community and encourage people to express their views at the City Council meeting where this ordinance will receive its final hearing. I have found the City Council and Police Chief Larry Murdo very willing to hear and respond to my concerns. While Chief Murdo and a majority of the council are in support of the proposal, both have expressed a willingness to make alterations to it based on community input. If there is substantial opposition to the proposed ordinance, the final vote would likely be postponed to allow time for further study and discussion.

If you are interested in discussing this before the City Council meeting, please call me at 486-4704.

Jonathan Slack

Chief Murdo:

Since my first letter to you regarding the proposed curfew ordinance, I have had the opportunity to read it in full. Please consider the following thoughts that have arisen from this reading.

As with many matters of law, there arises a conflict between individual rights and the granting of useful tools of authority to law enforcement personnel. While I can appreciate the value of such an ordinance to our community and your department's mission, I cannot support a device that so restricts the rights of the underage members of our community. Most of these individuals deserve respect and all must feel respected if they are to become participatory members of the adult community.

While a minor with one of the ordinance-permitted purposes in mind would still be free to move about after hours, they would be obliged to prove to any questioning police officer that their intent was indeed legal. They would be obligated to carry identification, and if the legally acting minor could not produce such, it would be within the officer's power to detain that individual. No crime had been committed, or contemplated, yet the minor, or person who could be mistaken to be a minor, has ended up in police custody. I believe that it is possible to address your concerns and those of supporting community members regarding juvenile safety and/or criminal conduct without also creating this violation of our constitutional rights.

Exemptions to curfew ordinance 92-010 include only "organized associational activities" (Section 8-2.2.B3). This same section, item A, includes "places of amusement and eating places" as being unlawful locations for a minor during curfew hours. Section 8-2.3 makes it unlawful for a parent to permit a minor "to violate any provision of Section 8-2.2." Taken together, these elements of the ordinance would place both the adult parent and the minor in violation of the law if a 17-year-old were given parental permission to see a late movie, or stay out late on a dinner date at a restaurant.

Although "theatrical performances" are included among the curfew exemption, they must also meet the standard of being an "organized associational activity." Perhaps this would allow attendance of many plays, but it is usually not the case that a movie could be so defined. I am quite sure that most Albany residents would feel that this was not reasonable, and that it constituted an unwelcome and unnecessary extension of police powers. For those that support the concept of a curfew, a careful rewording of the ordinance would easily correct this overly restrictive tone.

I am aware that the 1958 version of this ordinance stands today. My discussion with Thelma Rubin indicated that she knew of only one occasion in which your department's use of this ordinance had resulted in ill will or dispute between the community and the police. The fact that the curfew issue is being brought to the surface at this time suggests that the intent is to utilize it more fully. Therefore, I am not convinced that the past history of its utilization is indicative of what we can expect in the future. I do trust that your department is disinclined to abuse its power. However, the existence of this trust does not return to us the rights that would be denied by the curfew ordinance.

For the young members of our community to make a successful transition into adulthood, they must be given the opportunity to manage responsibilities before the eve of their 18th birthday. Parents must have the choice to grant their children such opportunities to demonstrate their ability and judgment. Additionally, a 17-year-old young adult in our country, providing that he or she is not causing an unlawful disturbance, has the right to go for a walk at night without obligation to answer to police interrogation. The proposed curfew law contradicts this right, and in addition would make such an outing outright illegal, even with parental consent.

Finally, you must consider the result of public knowledge of this ordinance. Your department will not have the final word on its enforcement. Perhaps in practice you would not interfere with my (hypothetical) 17-year-old son's attendance of the late show at the movie theater. However, if anyone did choose to object for any reason, with or without rational cause, your department would be obligated to apprehend my son and return him to our residence. If this ordinance were called upon in such a manner, it would not be in your power to do otherwise.

ensure that men and women of all racial/ethnic backgrounds and disabilities have an opportunity to compete for employment."

Hudson said the district has not budgeted funds for recruitment. He blamed the lack of minority teachers on the small number of minority teaching students graduating from universities.

The 18 teaching positions were not available all at once and filled as they opened due to retirements and the addition of classes this fall, he said.

Hudson said he is looking working with local universities to recruit more minority students.

De Hart agreed there is a shortage of available minority teachers. He said other Bay Area school districts, such as Richmond and Oakland, have a better representation

10175 SAN PABLO AVE, EL CERRITO
(1 Block North Of Central)

In the Game

By Peter Mentor

Let's look ahead

Oh-for-four. That's where the local football teams are this week after a depressing weekend. If you count San Francisco we went for-5, but the 49ers loss was as close to a win as you can get without winning. Berkeley, El Cerrito and Albany were not even close, while St. Mary's at least had a chance.

I don't remember the last time four teams lost the same week. I don't think they have ever all lost in the first week of the preseason.

The Panthers had the closest contest of the four schools. Riordan broke the opening kickoff for a 96-yard touchdown, which was the difference a 21-14 loss for St. Mary's. James Reed tied the game at 14 with two touchdowns, but an injury sidelined him from the third quarter on.

St. Mary's head coach Dan Haughnessey felt the tides would turn his way after knotting up the game, but such was not the case. We tied it up, then we lost it in the fourth quarter," said Haughnessey quietly. "You had hoped for momentum, but it never came."

This was a bitter pill to swallow, even worse in some ways than last year's season-ending loss to Alhambra in the Oakland Coliseum for the North Coast Section 2A football championship. Alhambra's 38-36 victory in the grand finale was the Bulldogs' 26th win in a row and St. Mary's nearly pulled it out.

But as teams go up, so must they eventually go down. Alhambra's streak ended last Friday with a 48-15 pounding from Monte Vista, as the Mustangs tolled up 405 yards total offense and seven touchdowns. St. Mary's beat Riordan last year and lost only one game during the regular season to Piedmont on the way to the NCS finals.

Now the Panthers already have lost this year and the season is only one game old. Best thing to do is put this one behind them or it could be a long season of looking back instead of looking ahead. I don't think I would want to be Mt. Diablo next week.

El Cerrito traveled to Napa and applied host Vintage with juicy turnovers for the party in a 20-7 loss. The Crushers scored with six seconds remaining in the first half to spoil the Gauchos' break time. An interception on the El Cerrito 40 and later a fumble recovery on the E.C. 37 set up two more scores for the home team.

El Cerrito escaped a shutout on Travis Byron's one-yard burst and kicker Jeff Henderson had his job on the extra point in the fourth quarter, but there weren't too many Gaucho highlights.

Berkeley got rolled in Santa Rosa 40-15 against Montgomery. The worst part was the missed kicks by the Yellowjackets, which surprised head coach Earl Moore because he thought they had that down in practice.

"Our problem was that we let them get away on some long runs," said Moore. "It was because of faulty tackling. We had them behind the line and failed to get them down. It really surprised me because I thought we were doing well against the run in drills. We're hoping not to make the same mistakes against Granada."

Real life can be such a bummer. Just ask Allany after falling 7-7 to Oakland Tech. Everything seemed to go wrong. The greased pig slipped out of the Cougars' hands, the Bulldog running game renewed them up and the air attack was too much to handle.

Memory loss would do nicely for next week.

The other side of BHS football

Coach Earl Moore wants his players to be smart — 'They don't make mistakes,' he says

By Peter Mentor

Berkeley High football is doing some heavy hitting this season, but it's not the kind usually associated with the gridiron.

Yellowjacket head coach Earl Moore has instituted a sports classroom where athletes hit the books before going out to practice. The study session comes after school and eats up valuable practice time, but Moore feels it is essential in keeping his players on the team and in school.

"The school says they can play with a 2.0," said Moore, referring to the C average needed to maintain athletic eligibility. "I say they need a 2.5 to stay on the team. They can't get into any college with a 2.0. If I can get them to graduate and go into a good college, it gives me a warm feeling."

Moore said the program has met with some resistance from teachers, who already put in a full day at school and are not willing to add extra time to their schedules. He would like to get some tutors, either Cal-Berkeley students, retired school teachers or even knowledgeable parents, to help with the studying because he feels good grades lead to better players.

"I want smart players," he said. "If they are smart, they know they can stay in any game until the end. They will not be afraid of any team and they won't make mistakes."

The players meet upstairs in the old gym building after school from 3:30 to 4:30. The room is cramped with players studying everything from French to physics. Every seat is filled and one more player would push the small room past capacity.

Moore said he has 100 players in all at the daily study sessions, so he had to put the freshman and sophomores into the fencing room downstairs to accommodate that many players.

This may not be unlike many other school football programs that institute tutorial sessions for their players, but Moore points out the difference in his plan.

"Everybody has to go," he said. "Even if you have a 4.0 you have to be there, because we are interested in your progress regardless of your grades."

Peter Mentor

Pre-practice studying is a game every member of Coach Earl Moore's team must play

Making a blanket policy of full attendance helps student-athletes with lower averages can learn proper study habits from the higher average students. It can also relieve alleviate the problem of having a "dumb" class, where a group of students might feel degraded because they are singled out from the rest of the team.

How well does this process work? Mid-semester grading period is coming up and Moore said he will see the progress reports on his players.

The response from parents has been positive, according to Moore. "A lot of parents are happy about it," he said. "They want to see it go and I want to see it go."

Montgomery beats Yellowjackets, 40-15

By Peter Mentor

There will be no buzz cuts for Berkeley head coach Earl Moore after the Yellowjackets 40-15 loss to Montgomery on Saturday.

Moore said he would do as his team did in shaving his head if the Yellowjackets went undefeated this year, but Montgomery outscored Berkeley 25-7 in the first half and held on for the victory in Santa Rosa.

The Yellowjackets (0-1) grabbed an early 7-0 lead on the second play from scrimmage in the first quarter on a 36-yard catch by Jinho Ferriera from quarterback Qadry Ali. Kicker Danny Duckart's extra-point attempt was good and Berkeley was in control.

Montgomery came back in dramatic fashion with a 66-yard touchdown run. However, the extra-point kick went wide and Berkeley maintained a one-point 7-6 lead.

The Yellowjackets had trouble containing the long run and Montgomery broke through for a 40-yard touchdown and a 12-7 lead. Once again the extra-point kick sailed wide again, leaving room for the Yellowjackets to make a comeback.

It didn't happen. In the second quarter Montgomery connected on a 43-yard pass and this time the extra point was good. Montgomery added another touchdown in the quarter and the half ended with Berkeley down by 18 points.

In the second half Berkeley started by giving Montgomery two points and the ball on a safety. The Yellowjackets were forced to punt from deep in their own territory and the snap went into the end zone making it 27-7.

Montgomery scored again in the third quarter when Berkeley failed to make some sure tackles behind

Gauchos lose to Vintage Crushers

By Peter Mentor

El Cerrito was down just 7-0 at the half in the annual game against Vintage in Napa on Friday, but the Gaucho offense never got going and they suffered their first loss of the season, 20-7.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Gauchos came out strong in the second quarter. El Cerrito was poised to score on a powerful drive that brought the Gauchos to the Crushers' 14 yard line, but the drive failed and Vintage took over.

Vintage mounted an 86-yard drive, chewing up time off the clock as they marched down the field. The drive culminated in a touchdown with six seconds left in the half, and the successful extra-point kick made it 7-0 Crushers.

Gauchos turnovers in the third quarter resulted in good field position and two touchdowns for the Crushers.

The first turnover came off an intercepted Royce Rose pass that put Vintage inside El Cerrito's 20 yard line. Vintage scored a touchdown moments later and made the extra-point kick for the 14-0 lead.

On the next possession El Cerrito drove out to their own 37, but fumbled the ball in the process. Vintage took advantage of the prime field position and went in for the score. The extra point

Berkeley High v-ball: short but scrappy

By Peter Mentor

Getting down and dirty is the way the Berkeley girls' volleyball team is going to play this season.

In a game inhabited by behemoth giants of the court, Berkeley is severely undersized this season. Team members look up to junior Phoebe Dann, a middle blocker topping off the height chart for the Yellowjackets at five feet nine inches.

The significance of height in volleyball is obvious. Getting up and over the net to block the opponents' shots is a prominent part of the game.

But wait. Berkeley went against Miramonte and Monte Vista at the Bishop O'Dowd tournament in Oakland last week and won both matches against two teams that had definite height advantages.

They didn't do it by skying high, they did it by diving low.

"Monte Vista had one player shorter than 5-8 and we had one player taller than 5-8," said Berkeley co-coach Ed Cohen. "We really have a lot of skilled players in the program. What we don't have is a lot of height."

Berkeley won the first two games 15-5 and 15-1 against Monte Vista, then substituted in reserve players in the third game and lost 15-11. The Yellowjackets were down 14-9 in the fourth game and put the starters back in to play. They pulled out a 17-15 victory to take the match.

"The first two games were an indication of how we are going to have to play to break taller teams," said Cohen. "We can

Sports Roundup

ALBANY FOOTBALL

A close game turned into a rout for Albany as the Cougars fell 47-7 to Oakland Tech at Cougar Field on Friday.

The Cougars looked like they would put up a fight after responding to a first quarter Tech touchdown with one of their own.

Dwayne Chapelle, who ran for over 100 yards in the game, grabbed a screen pass from Cougar quarterback Dyron Brewer and raced 73 yards up the sideline to tie the score 7-7 going into the second quarter, but it was the final score (that would count) for Albany.

Tech's DeMarco Doakes, who scored the first touchdown of the game on a 10-yard run up the middle, tacked on two more touchdowns and added 135 yards in a stellar performance.

The Bulldogs broke free on two long runs in the second quarter that set up one-yard touchdowns by Tech quarterback Zeke Robinson.

Cary Williams caught a 72-yard reception from Robinson and was caught before he could score, but Robinson bashed it in on the next play. The extra-point attempt missed and Tech went up 13-7.

Later it was Doakes who escaped the Cougar defense on a 77-yard run and was nabbed before scoring to set up Robinson again. Tech went for the two-point conversion but failed for the 19-7 lead.

Still in the second quarter, Albany lost the ball at their own 41-yard line and Doakes cashed in from 25 yards out for his second touchdown of the game. Late in the first half Robinson connected with Rashad Crawford to enter the break up 31-7.

The second half was just as painful, especially when Tech scored on a Cougar fumble on their own 4 yard line when Chris Logwood picked it up and ran it in. Albany fumbled twice more and Tech scored on both opportunities for the final 47-7 score.

ST. MARY'S FOOTBALL

The Panthers started the season with a tough 21-14 loss to Riordan in Berkeley on Saturday.

St. Mary's will try to rebound this Saturday with another home game against Mt. Diablo at 1:30 p.m. The junior varsity game comes before that at 11 a.m.

BERKELEY FIELD HOCKEY

The Yellowjackets opened their season at the Willow Glen Tournament in San Jose last weekend with mixed results.

The team had trouble with traffic and was missing five players including the goalie for the first game, a 5-0 loss to Los Altos on Friday.

In the second game, Berkeley and Homestead battled to a 0-0 tie with neither team scoring in the abbreviated 35-minute contest.

Berkeley played four games on Saturday, losing the first two in close 1-0 defeats to Westmont and Cupertino.

Finally the Yellowjackets' scoring drought ended when Nicola McClung scored on a free corner shot. It was all Berkeley would need in the 1-0 victory over Prospect High. "She scored on a short corner," said Berkeley head coach Michelle Olye. "It was a great shot too. She plays sweeper and came up to shoot the corner."

The Yellowjackets finished with another 0-0 tie with Del Mar despite dominating the game. Two scores were called back during the game, one by McClung on a short corner and another by senior midfielder Vasey McClory.

Berkeley Adult Softball

It's playoff time for 10 of the 23 leagues in Berkeley Adult Softball and that means the end of a long season is closing in, especially for teams not among the top three in each league.

The Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday leagues are wrapping it up this week. Second- and third-place teams will play the early game at 7 p.m. and the playoff winner must play the same night at 8:30 against the regular season champion.

T. Rex finished with an 8-2 record and will play the winner of the Biovir Labs (7-3) and Nemesis (6-4) for the Tuesday A League championship.

Friends/Relation finished at 8-1-1 to win the regular season contest in the Tuesday B1 League and awaits the playoff outcome of second-place Rock-fish Blues (6-3-1) and third-place Stray Cats (5-4-1).

Nancy and Sluggo (8-2) tied D & T (8-2) for the league title, but a win in the regular season gave Nancy and Sluggo the edge. Now D&T must play third-place Mary Janes (6-4) and hope for a double header that will set up a rematch with Nancy and Sluggo.

Xoma Antibodies (9-1) cruised the rest of the way after suffering just one loss in the regular season to take first place in the Tuesday C League. King-fish (7-3) and Loaded Bases (7-3) finished tied for second and must battle each other before one of them gets a chance for an upset against Xoma.

Big Train (8-1-1) and Wild Bunch (8-1-1) ran neck and neck all season, but Big Train reached the Wednesday A League station first. Wild Bunch must play third-place Eye Co. (6-4) for a possible rematch with Big Train.

Cybelle's Pizza (7-2-1) dropped two games down the final stretch, but managed to hold on to first place in the Wednesday B1 League. Cant's (6-4) moved into second place with an end-of-season spurge in the win column and must face Chester's Best (5-4-1), who dropped out of second place with two losses.

Wicks Sticks (8-2) won the Wednesday B2 League outright, while Silver and Black (6-4) and The Recs (6-4) tied for second place. Those two teams went 1-1 in the final weeks, so anything can happen in that playoff.

Injured Reserve (9-1) had the one loss to blemish their record, but they stood tall to finish in the Wednesday Women C League. Les Ms (7-3) is the favorite in the playoff game against Berkeley Y (4-6), a team that did make a strong move in the final weeks to even make the playoffs by bouncing out Not Yet Chosen.

Oak Club (7-2-1) won the last three games to take the Thursday B League regular-season title. Yellow Dogs (6-3-1) made a similar move with three wins to move securely into second, just one game out of first place. Ozone Rangers (5-5) was 2-1 in the same time span to slide by Rockers for third place and into the finals.

Topoeca (8-2) had no trouble winning the Thursday C League and now awaits the playoff winner. Paragon Blades (6-4) and Sonoma Foods (5-4-1) broke out of a close three-way race for the playoff spots and the winner is hoping to upset the pudding for Topoeca.

The other leagues are still fighting it out to see who makes the playoffs.

NAD (6-3) jumped into first-place tie with Ozzies (6-3), but anyone could win the Monday B League depending on the final games for each team. The Jets (5-4) must win and hope the two teams behind them don't catch up. Kensington Circus (4-5) and Land Sharks (4-5) are on the bubble for the playoffs.

Imperials (7-2) are in first place in the Monday C1 League, but Simply Red (6-3) climbed to second and two other teams are fighting for the playoffs. Trout (5-4) and Fuzz Busters (5-4) need to win for any hope of extending the season.

The Monday C2 League is going down to the last week of play. St. Bob & Dragon (7-2) has a slight edge on first place, but Bagmen (6-3) skipped up to second and B. Scum (5-4), Bruise Bros. (4-4-1) and Base Hits (4-5) are still in the running.

Eagles (7-2) are flying high in the Monday C League, but the playoffs remain unclear with Urban Guerrillas (5-4), Sliders (5-4), Acme All Stars (4-5) and Alohas (4-5) so tightly bunched.

The Pack 9-1 has already won the Friday B League and must wait for the others to catch things up in the playoffs. Safeway Reds (5-4) are in it for sure, but Bad Attitude (4-5) could tie the Brewers (3-6) to muddy up third place.

Bad Boys (8-2) are alone in first in the Friday C league, but Sacco/Vanzetti (7-2) could tie it up with a last-week win. Batmen (6-3) are in it no matter what, but would like to finish tied for second with a win this week.

Base Cadets (8-1) have first place for now in the Friday Co-Rec B League, but Last Minutes (7-2) is hoping to reverse that situation. Delta Kennels (6-3) is waiting for the playoffs to begin and could take second place, but that won't improve their standing in the playoffs.

Blue Eagle at 9-1 won league the Co-Rec C League and Killer Karais (7-2) has second place sewn up despite what happens in the final week. Now it's up to Street Legal (4-5) and Growing Light (4-5) to battle for the third playoff spot.

Diamonds (6-2-1) and XO2's (5-3-1) could tie for first place depending on the final outcome this week, but FTLV (5-4) is a sure third place in the Sunday B League.

The Sunday C League has a close race going between the Dolphins (7-2), Sons of Cerveza (6-2-1) and The Fog (6-3) for the top spot.

play some great defense with our ball control.

"My players have experience. They really understand what their roles are. They are not capable of doing everything, but what they can do they do consistently."

What they can do is get down for digs. Blocking shots is not always possible, especially when you don't have the height. That places a heavy emphasis on diving to the floor before the ball hits, saving shots that otherwise look hopeless, setting the ball on the next touch and going for the kill around the opponents' tree-line blockers.

The same strategy worked against Miramonte, where Berkeley came out 3-1 victors against a much taller team.

"Their middle blockers were six feet, 6-2," said Cohen. "They had one girl at 5-9 and the rest were taller. They put a big lineup out there all four games. They blocked over 80 balls and fewer than 10 of those dropped untouched. Only two or three dropped without someone (from Berkeley) going down for it."

Cohen said the law of averages is on Berkeley's side when they save that many points by digging the opponents' kill attempts. "You keep hitting away and eventually those balls go off the block and out of bounds," he said.

O'Dowd head coach Lisa Newman, who coached at Berkeley a few years back, was impressed with the Yellowjackets even though her Dragon beat Berkeley 15-2, 15-11, 15-7 to capture the tournament title.

"I think Berkeley played really scrappy," said Newman, who picked up a lot of balls that were down for sure."

Starting at the setter position the Yellowjackets is senior que Thierry-Zaragoza, a former All-League player returning last year.

"She is the leader, the one on the court," said Cohen of the setting setter. "She really charge out there. She's so good her feet as any setter I've seen. Her pursuit of the ball, the example for the team."

Dann, the statuesque blocker for the Yellowjackets, a second team All-League player last year and must now move to leading hitter, feeling out her new role as the big hitters on the team, Cohen.

the line of scrimmage and 21 yards later the running back went in for another score. Montgomery tried out another kicker got the extra point, making it 34-7.

After being burned by the pass early, Montgomery dropped back to a deep zone for the rest of the game, and it worked. The Yellowjackets completed half of their passes, but not enough to get them into the end zone through scoreless second and third quarters.

The other problem was penalties that pushed the Yellowjackets back every time it seemed they might make some gains. "We were mounting a drive and penalties cost us," said Moore.

Montgomery drove deep in the fourth quarter and popped it over from two yards out to secure the blowout and push the lead to 32 points before the Yellowjackets could respond.

Yellowjacket quarterback Douglas Anthorp, who replaced Ali in the third quarter, connected on a five-yard touchdown pass to Abe Spillsbury with about two minutes remaining. Berkeley went for the two-point conversion and Anthorp found an open Carroll Beavers for the final points of the game.

More said there were some good signs for his team in the game. "We can put the ball in the air," he said. "Our special teams are better."

The running game, however, is still in the rebuilding phase after the loss of running back Khalid Shabazz, who ran for 138 yards, 17 carries and scored two touchdowns as a transfer for 3-4 High.

Next stop on the Berkeley schedule is Granada (0-1), a winner over Castro Valley. Yellowjackets will have to win senior split end Ray Babin broke open an 80-yard touchdown run and returned a punt 30 yards for another touchdown. Babin also picked up 103 yards in carries. They must also quarterback Jerome Alvin, scored twice and connected on seven passes for 77 yards in air.

Granada had trouble in the run, but Berkeley will develop one by tomorrow as the Yellowjackets plan to use that weakness.

Gauchos

failed leaving the Crushers up 20-0.

"They scored on those two turnovers," said Gaucho head coach Frank Milo. "They controlled the ball on offense. They ran 60 plays to our 30."

El Cerrito avoided the shutout when senior running back Louis Byron pounded it in from one yard out in the fourth quarter for the Gauchos' only touchdown of the game. Jeff Henderson parted the uprisings for the extra point to finish off the scoring for the day.

Senior fullback Fred Lane led the Gauchos with 49 yards on seven carries. Rose scrambled for 27 yards on six carries and completed four of nine passes for 57 yards and one interception.

Senior Dirk Lacy caught two passes for 19 yards and sophomore tight end Dennis White caught one pass for 22 yards. Senior Tyree Cloman grabbed one pass for six yards.

The Gauchos come home tomorrow night at 7:30 against San Leandro in their only preseason home game. The Pirates lost last week 11-6 to Bishop O'Dowd and neither team looked particularly good in their opening games in San Leandro.

El Cerrito will need to contain San Leandro senior quarterback John Trotman, who connected on a 68-yard pass to Jimmy that set up a one-yard touchdown by senior Marc Goodson man, at 5-9, 150 pounds, ability to scramble and the run. Goodson (61 pounds), Ivan Butler (51 pounds) and Tony Brachio (180 pounds) are the Pirates' guys.

San Leandro is down a few players this year with two players injured from the 23-play game.

Milo said he would not expect that to hold the Pirates' hopes, but his team can rebound next week before meeting Milpitas next Friday.

Children show signs of recovery through their artworks

The exhibit "Health Through Art: Signs of Recovery," at MOCHA (Museum of Children's Art), 560 Second St. in Oakland (across from East Plus near Jack London Square), is the result of a campaign to counter the messages children (and adults) constantly receive in the media encouraging alcohol use or other "unhealthy lifestyles." Hours: Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Free. Phone: 465-8770. Closes Oct. 3.

Oil pastels depicting black culture

The "vibrant oil pastel paintings" of El Cerrito artist Hilda Robinson depict black culture, capturing poses and body language of subjects in a way that "affirms the human family." Her works are on display at the Family Dentist, 1510 Franklin St., Oakland. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Closes Oct. 2.

Retrospective of Lieberman oils, acrylics and clay figures

A show of 40 oils, acrylics and clay figures spanning the entire career of Harry Lieberman opens Friday at the Ames Gallery of American Folk Art, 2661 Cedar St. in Berkeley. Lieberman died in 1983 at the age of 103; he began his career at 76. His work has been widely exhibited in museums and featured in works on folk art. The pieces often depict biblical tales or scenes from the artist's life. Call 455-4949 for gallery hours. Closes Oct. 30.

Works by Mills professor at SFMOMA

The paintings of Hung Liu go on display this week (beginning Thursday) at the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, 401 Van Ness (across from City Hall). Liu was born in China and studied in Beijing and San Diego. She has taught at Mills College since 1990. Her works deal with traditional views of Chinese culture and women. Hours are Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $1 to $2 (free the first Tuesday of each month). Call (415) 252-4000. Closes Nov. 8.

Per Kirkeby exhibit at UC-Berkeley

Works by Per Kirkeby, called "Denmark's most renowned contemporary artist," are on display at UC-Berkeley's University Art Museum, 325 Durant Ave. A trained geologist, Kirkeby uses natural forms to suggest growth, disruption and decay. Call 642-0808 for hours. Closes Oct. 15. (A lecture on Danish experimental video is slated for 7:30 p.m., Oct. 8, at the museum's George Gund Theater.)

Mason Cole and Hillary Gorman are lovers who retreat to a summer house in the woods only to find their relationship crumbling under strained intimacy. In David Mamet's The Woods, a "dramatic poem for two voices" opening this week at LaVal's Northside, 1834 Euclid Ave. in Berkeley. The play is performed Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. (dinner available at 7 p.m.) between Sept. 17 and Oct. 10. Tickets are $5 to $7; call 704-8358 for reservations (the theater is tiny). The play's being mounted by Keverikos Productions, a new Berkeley-based theatrical company. Kevin Foster directs.

Masquers take on the Forty-Niners

Belasco play inspired Puccini's opera

By Phyllis Lyon

Old-fashioned melodrama in the days of the Forty-Niners takes center stage in the Masquers of Point Richmond's production of The Girl of the Golden West playing at the Masquers' theater through Oct. 3.

Stage

Playwright-producer extraordinaire David Belasco, a legend in his own time (he was called the "Bishop of Broadway"), set out in 1905 to put dramatic meat on the bare bones of the old-style hiss-and-boo melodrama, then wildly popular on city stages and in boondock tents all over America.

Though the virgin-heroine is still, in effect, tied to the railroad tracks, the mustachioed villain still cackles and the antique plot creaks to its happy ending, Belasco has indeed succeeded in putting some soul into the stock characters, and the Masquers company plays it all out admirably and, thankfully, with a straight face.

Set in a grungy mining camp in the Sierra when gold fever was at its apex, The Girl's theme is the permutations of love, "all the heaven there is on this Earth, and it's hell." The hard-drinking, hard-scrabble miners are all in love with The Girl, the beautiful Minnie, who rules the camp's social center, the Polka Saloon, with a dainty iron hand in a velvet glove.

The shoot-first sheriff, who has a wife in New Orleans, is in hot pursuit of Minnie's virginity. But then a mysterious stranger rides into Cloudy and, for Minnie's heart, that's all she wrote.

Our hero's true identity is revealed. Minnie stakes his life in a down-and-dirty poker game with the sheriff. Warning to a suffragette's heart, Belasco reverses the traditional Little Nell-Handsomeness Harry roles. The Girl saves the Hero and, after bumpy detours off the course of true love, the pair ride off into the sunrise.

Director Robert Love hit a rich vein of gold in casting The Girl. Eileen Smith plays the feisty Minnie with pert spunk, and Steen Sellers overcomes the potential wimp in Dick Johnson, the hero reclaimed by the love of a good woman, with a manly but sensitive performance.

The standout in the Masquers Girl is Gene Kahane as Jack Rance, the two-fisted sheriff gone soft. His nasty chuckles are just right, not too evil, not too smarmy.

However, I may have been extra-tickled by the fact that Kahane's sheriff, whether the actor knows it or not, bears an uncanny resemblance in appearance and manner to Albany's real-life police chief — not necessarily in the chief's methods of law enforcement, I hasten to add.

In addition to the warm-hearted hijinks of miners named Happy, Trinidad and Sonora (no Doc or Gene Kahane plays the infatuated sheriff, Jack Rance.

Sneezy), comic relief and a romantic sub-plot are provided by a 1905 version of American Indians which may not be to 1992 taste. Belasco does mix "Ugh. Me wantum marry you" redman dialogue with the irony that the Indians, well played by Pamela Ciochetti and Tim Hart, are the only people in the saloon who know the words

Schrader takes a brooding look at N.Y. drug scene

The only real flaw is a phony ending that seems tacked on.

By Basil De Pinto

There are horses that move out fast at the starting gate and can keep going strong through most of the race, then suddenly fade as they approach the finish line. Something similar happens in Paul Schrader's moody, absorbing drama about the New York drug scene, Light Sleeper.

Movies

For almost two hours this is a film of uncommon intensity and power which draws the viewer into the vortex of money and crime that constitute the action in big-time cocaine deals.

The movie probes the inner life of a minor runner, John LeTour (Willem Dafoe), the "light sleeper" of the title, who spends his nights delivering the goods to mainly well-heeled patrons of his boss, Ann (Susan Sarandon).

Filmed with dark, nocturnal moodiness, the story moves with what seems like inexorable tread to a fatal conclusion and then comes up with a sappy ending that arrives from another cinematic planet.

This is the kind of decision that is made in production board rooms rather than in the planning of a talented writer/director like Paul Schrader, (Taxi Driver, Raging Bull) who evidently did not have the clout to veto this misguided interference in what is otherwise a superlative film.

LeTour is an addict who has been clean for two years. He has been successful as a delivery boy, bringing expensive fixes to an array of tourists, students and business types.

But he has just turned 40, crack has entered the scene to change the shape of the trade, and the police are moving in, selectively winnowing out larger numbers of dealers.

Ann too wants to get out of the business, but she has plenty of capital to start a cosmetics outfit, while LeTour has little to show in the way of savings.

He runs into an old flame, Marianne (Dana Delany), and for a brief moment he hopes to start anew with her, but Marianne carries too many hurts from their past and she rejects him.

LeTour feels fate closing in on him, and a tragic turn of events leads to a shoot-out in a client's apartment. LeTour, wounded, collapses. Unfortunately, so does the movie. This should have been the ending, but the producers in what passes for wisdom (i.e., concern for the bottom line) have tacked on five excruciatingly banal minutes.

Everything else about Light Sleeper marks it as a film of intelligence and superb film craft. Take the dominating visual metaphor — piles of garbage strewn about the city streets, the result of a strike.

class types she portrayed in White Palace and Thelma and Louise.

As a constant reminder of the refuse of human life resulting from the drug trade, it does its work unobtrusively and efficiently; in the hands of a lesser artist it could have been heavy-handed.

So the director's rich imagination carries the picture, along with the brooding laid-back acting of Defoe and Sarandon's pumped-up, sophisticated playing of the drug boss, so different from the lower-

Defoe is very good as LeTour. He uses his gaunt, almost homely face and slight build to project a shaky, vulnerable character who can finally be provoked to violence as he tries to redeem himself.

Despite the unsatisfying ending, Light Sleeper is a powerfully dramatic movie that will keep you at the edge of your seat up to that point.

Perspective on Oakland

The work of five artists is on display in windows at Jack London Square through Oct. 15. One of the artists is Anthony Holdsworth, whose oil 'With the Passage of Time' is shown above. The other artists are Dan Fontes, Jan Lassetter, Jerrold Turner and John Kenyon. All the works are for sale. If you have questions about them, call Chris Johnson at 652-0399.

Events This Week - continued

Men's Slavic chorus in Berkeley

Slavyanka, a chorus of 30 Bay Area men who sing in authentic Russian/Eastern European style (they've been cheered by Russian audiences), presents a concert of liturgical and folk music this Saturday at 8 p.m. at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, 2300 Bancroft Way in Berkeley. Folk songs, love songs, drinking songs, church music, Slavyanka sings it all. Tickets are $8 to $12, available at the door.

18th-century fortepiano music

MusicSources, the "Center for Historically Informed Performance," presents John Khouri and Janine Johnson playing works by J.C. Bach, Clementi and Mozart on two fortepianos from the late 18th century. The concert is at 5 p.m. Sunday at the Northbrae Community Church, 941 The Alameda in Berkeley. Tickets are $12 to $15; call 528-1685 for reservations. A reception follows the concert.

Mechanical Sound Orchestra at UAM

Matthew Heckert's Mechanical Sound Orchestra, his "assemblage of aurally and visually stimulating machine instruments," will be installed at the University Art Museum (2625 Durant Ave.) beginning Wednesday of this week. A computer will "play" the instruments at various times during the day. One critic said that Heckert's music has "a harsh lyricism, with percussion and droning repetitive backgrounds blended with occasional and almost melodic choruses." Call 642-0808.

Harp duo plays des Prez, Satie, Machlis

The "new south bay harp duo" of Knodel and Valencia will be joined by fiddler/folk singer Valerie Price for a concert of music by Josquin des Prez, Erik Satie and Paul Machlis at 8 p.m. Friday at New Pieces Gallery, 1597 Solano Ave. in Berkeley. Call 527-6779.

Flutists play Reicha, Boismortier et al.

The Berkeley Flute Ensemble will perform music by Reicha, Boismortier, English madrigalists and others Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Coffee Mill, 3363 Grand Ave. in Oakland. Tickets are $10 at the door. Call 465-3236 for more information.

Pacific Chamber Players in Franck, Mendelssohn

The Trinity Chamber Concerts continue Saturday at 8 p.m. with the Pacific Chamber Players—Martha Wasley (piano), James Potochny (violin), Gregory Colburn (cello)—in a Franck violin sonata, a Brahms cello sonata and a Mendelssohn trio. Tickets are $5 to $8. The Trinity Chapel is on Dana Street between Bancroft and Durant in Berkeley. Call 549-3864 for information.

Pianist Vera Breheda plays works of Mozart (two sonatas), Chopin (a nocturne and scherzo) and Brahms (Variations and Fugue on a theme by Handel) at 8 p.m. this Saturday at the Maybeck Recital Hall, 1537 Euclid Ave. in Berkeley. Tickets are $15. Call 848-3228.

Diablo Brass Quintet

The Diablo Brass Quintet presents a free concert of music by Bach, Purcell, Dvorak, Washburn, Scheidt et al. at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Montclair United Methodist Church, 2162 Mountain Blvd. in Oakland. A reception follows the concert. Call 689-6620.

Two faculty recitals at Cal

Baritone Allen Shearer and pianist Barbara Shearer perform Faure's La Bonne Chanson, Barbara Shearer performs Schumann's Papillons, and cellist Bonnie Hampton and pianist Nathan Schwartz perform sonatas by Milhaud and Beethoven and works by Cowell, Riegger and Virgil Thompson, all this Sunday at 3 p.m. at UC-Berkeley's Hertz Hall. Tickets are $3 to $7. Call 642-9988.

Next Wednesday pianist Jacqueline Chew and baritone Chad Runyon perform songs by Martin Hermann and Charles Ives, and Chew performs Ives' "Concord" Sonata. The free recital is at 12:15 p.m., Sept. 23, in Hertz Hall.

Haiti: Killing the Dream

'Haiti: Killing the Dream,' a 60-minute documentary on the political situation in Haiti premieres in San Francisco and Berkeley next week. Directed by Babeth, Katharine Kean and Rudi Stern, it plays in the East Bay at 5 p.m., 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Wednesday at the Theatre, 2036 University Ave. in Berkeley. The film is narrated by Ossie Davis and includes interviews with exiled president Jean-Bertrand Aristide as well as with members of the ruling junta and a cross-section of the Haitian population. Above, refugees at Guantanamo Bay await enforced repatriation.

Girl

to "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," including as it does "land of the pilgrims' pride."

The Masquers have paid tribute to Belasco's lesser-known claims to a place in theatrical history, his fame as "master of photographic realism" and his attempts to produce indoor-outdoor stage effects.

Photographs of the times projected on a screen before and between acts set an authentic scene, and playgoers sit in the midst of a colorful Sierra pine forest painted on the house walls by muralist Ruth Fox.

And for anyone who may wonder, the red flag with the black letters "ECV" hanging over the potbellied saloon stove is the banner of the loose-knit organization called E Clampus Vitus, begun in Gold Rush days as gatherings of rootin' tootin' miners and carried on by ersatz "greybeards" around California today.

Serious opera buffs may relish the chance to see the seldom-produced original Girl of the Golden West. Puccini used it as the source for his La Fanciulla del West. (Another Belasco play was source for Puccini's Madama Butterfly.)

The Girl of the Golden West plays Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Masquers Playhouse, 105 Park Place, Point Richmond, through Oct. 3 with matinees Sept. 13 and 27. For reservations call 232-4031.

Two choirs holding auditions

Piedmont Choirs

The Piedmont Choirs will audition children from 7 to 14 years of age on Saturday. No musical experience is necessary.

There are groups for beginners, those with intermediate skills and those ready to tour. Membership is open to children all over the Bay Area.

The choirs are for treble voices. Members pay tuition and uniform fees. Scholarships are available. For an appointment, call 547-4441.

San Francisco Girls Chorus

The San Francisco Girls Chorus is holding auditions in Oakland this Saturday for girls ages 8 through 12 for its fall chorus school. No musical experience is necessary.

Beginners rehearse in Oakland and San Francisco. Upper choruses rehearse in San Francisco. Girls should be prepared to sing a simple song. As a result, a list will be provided. Scholarships are available. To make an appointment, call (415) 673-1111.

The annual bazaar at St. Alban's Episcopal Church, 1501 Washington St., is scheduled for this Saturday, Sept. 19, not Sept. 12 as reported in last week's column. This special sale is prepared by members of the congregation, working many months in advance. Come early for the best buys. The sale begins at 9 a.m.

Money raised from the bazaar goes toward outreach ministries of the congregation.

Sept. 20 is Rally Day Sunday at Sycamore Congregational Church, 1111 Navellier St., El Cerrito. Sunday School for the children will begin at 10 a.m. Following the Sunday School hour, the children will briefly join the adults for worship. An outdoor BBQ luncheon will be held after the 11 a.m. service to celebrate the beginning of the new Church School year. Sunday school teachers for 1992-93 are Reiko Kamada, Donna Choy, Muts Nishino, Jan Fabini, Megan Inada, and Marilyn Head.

The congregation at Grace Lutheran Church, 15 Santa Fe Ave., El Cerrito, invites you to Friendship Sunday this week, Sept. 10 at 10:30 a.m.

"To learn of God's love for all in these chaotic days, Grace Church is making a special effort to touch your life through God's Word as written in the Holy Scriptures," says news secretary Agnes Hoogen. "Do plan to come and bring a friend."

Pastor Vern Olson's message will be "A Loving Friend," based on Luke 6:27 to 38.

Sunday morning Bible classes for adults and children begin at 9 a.m., with a joint gathering in the sanctuary. Child care is available.

Call 525-9004 for further information.

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League at Grace will hold its annual Fall Boutique next Saturday, Sept. 26 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. More details next week.

Pastor John Aiken returns to the Evangelical Free Church, 7200 Schmidt Lane, El Cerrito, this week. He will conclude his focus on the life of faith as presented in Hebrews 11. Worship begins at 9:30 a.m.; children and adult classes follow.

Worship at the Berkeley Friends Church, Cedar and Sacramento Streets, focuses on the theme of "New Beginnings" for September. Also this month, the congregation is reaffirming its commitment to inclusive language. The monthly newsletter describes the Friends' meeting as

"committed to finding ways to use language that includes both men and women and which affirms both masculine and feminine aspects of God in our experience."

Last Sunday a new schedule began for the Meeting School. All classes assemble in the sanctuary at 10 a.m. for an opening devotional time of song, Scripture reading and sharing. Classes meet from 10:15 to 10:50 and are coordinated by the Christian Education Committee in consultation with the Missionary and Outreach Committee.

A special video will be shown during this Sunday's adult class. The class will consider "the universal human need of basic shelter" in a Sunday of concern sponsored by Habitat for Humanity. That creative organization produces low-cost, decent housing for families around the country and around the world using the help of local volunteers and the recipients themselves.

"Courtly Love or Courting Disaster: Romantic Relationships between Jewish Men and Women" is the title of a lecture and discussion that will be led by Steven Pechter tonight at the Berkeley Richmond Jewish Community Center at 7:30 p.m.

Pechter has a master's degree in clinical psychology and has been counseling men and leading men's groups for 15 years. He practices psychotherapy in Berkeley and does organizational consulting, marketing and training business, social service and profit organizations.

Cost for members of BJC Singles is $5; for BRJC members $6; for members of the public $8. The center is located at 1414 Nut St., Berkeley.

Local lawyer wins award

Bay City News

The State Bar of California has announced that a woman attorney with the Legal Aid Society of Alameda County has won the 1992 Loren Miller Legal Services Award.

The award is presented annually to an individual in recognition of outstanding contributions in legal services delivery to the poor and disadvantaged. This year it honors Evelyn R. Frank, an Albany resident.

The award is named for the late California attorney and judge who was an early leader in the civil rights movement and was lead or co-counsel in a number of civil rights cases, including Brown v. Board of Education.

"Evelyn Frank has set the standard to which all attorneys should aspire," wrote the heads of six Bay Area legal organizations which nominated her.

Frank was lauded last week for her work as lead or co-counsel in major cases and class actions in federal and state courts that resulted in access to health care and income assistance for low-income Californians.

She has handled cases attacking income rules for federally-funded medical coverage for indigent and low-income people, and cases involving the right of strikers to obtain subsistence benefits and the right of welfare families to be provided advance written notice of harsh program rules.

Frank also helped draft legislation in 1983 that raised the amount of income a Medi-Cal recipient could keep to spend on non-medical needs; in 1985 helped codify anti-imprisonment protections for spouses of nursing home patients; and advocated emergency shelter payments to homeless families to enable them to pay deposits to move into permanent housing.

Frank is a 1975 graduate of Boalt Hall School of Law.
